New crop insurance plan offers higher yield guarantees

High yields and good records can pay off in increased crop insurance protection for many farmers, according to F. W. "Ted" Crouch, Jr., Field Operations Office Director of Federal Crop Insurance Corporation.

Crouch reports that a major change in the method of calculating insurance yield guarantees makes it possible for qualifying farmers to obtain additional coverage at no additional cost.

"Our goal is to offer each farmer a guaranteed yield that reflects his own yield experience. Thus, if a farmer can prove that his yields during the past three or more years have been above the average for his area, we'll also give him credit for above average yields in any years for which he doesn't have the necessary records."

"We'll assume his yields in those years were above average by the same percentage of his recent yields," explains Crouch.

The insurance official states that the improved Individual Yield Coverage Program is it called, will make Federal Crop Insurance policies significantly more attractive than in the past to those farmers who have a history of high yields. The fact that there's no increase in cost for the increased protection should also provide an incentive to carry insurance," he adds.

The county ASCS office can provide information about the procedure for verifying above average yields. The farmer must provide ASCS with records of planted acreage and all production of a crop for at least the past three years.

For 1983, the Individual Yield-Coverage Program is open to farmers who produce corn, cotton, grain sorghum, rice and soybeans. Insurance agents can explain exactly what coverage is available and what the protection would cost. To make the insurance as affordable as possible, the Federal Government pays up to 30 percent of the premium cost.

Colorado County Sheriff's Report

By Jim Broussard

We would like to remind our citizens that from time to time there will be people soliciting for advertisement etc. in support of effective Law Enforcement. Unfortunately we have some that will solicit for their own personal gain. Should someone you do not know attempt to solicit for anything in support of Law Enforcement, call the Sheriff's Office and let us check them out. We appreciate all the support we receive from our citizens; however, we do not want anyone ripped off by someone misrepresenting Law Enforcement.
