Nada native named bishop

The Rev. Msgr. Bernard F. Popp, a native of Nada and currently rector of San Fernando Cathedral in San Antonio, has been named auxiliary bishop-elect of the Archdiocese of San Antonio, according to an announcement by Archbishop Patrick Flores.

Popp is the second native priest son of St. Mary's Parish in Nada to become a bishop. The first was the Most Rev. Hugo M. Gerbermann, M.M., who is now retired and living at St. Mary's Rectory in Nada.

Gerbermann and Popp are classmates, both ordained to the Priesthood in February of 1943. A third classmate, Father Rudolph Hoffman, also a native son of the St. Mary's Parish, died in 1979. Gerbermann was ordained a bishop on July 22, 1962, in Panama City. He belongs to the Maryknoll Missionary Fathers.

Popp will be ordained a bishop on July 26 at 7 p.m. in the San Fernando Cathedral, San Antonio. Bishop-elect Popp will celebrate his First Pontifical Mass in his home-town parish, St. Mary's, on Sunday, July 31. The exact time of the afternoon celebration will be announced later. The Parish Board and the heads of the parish organizations will meet to plan for the Pontifical Mass and the reception to follow.

A spokesman for the archdiocese office said the bishops of Texas met and made recommendations for the position to Archbishop Pio Laghi of Washington, D.C., who is Pope John Paul II's personal representative in the United States. Laghi forwarded the recommendations to the pope who made the decision.

DU-TER STOPS SHEATH BLIGHT

You can stop sheath blight in rice before it robs yields with DU-TER fungicide, from Uniroyal. Used as directed, DU-TER provides outstanding control of sheath blight and is backed by more than 18 years of university tests and demonstrations.

Uncontrolled, this fungus disease can drastically reduce rice yields and currently affects more than 50% of the rice acreage in Arkansas, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas. Millions of dollars could be lost each year in these states if rice is left untreated.

DU-TER is available in both flowable formulation or wettable powder in a unique water-soluble bag. Both are effective and economical to use.

This year, don't risk your rice yields to sheath blight. Stop it before it cuts into your profits. Ask your agricultural supplier about DU-TER. Uniroyal Chemical, Division of Uniroyal, Inc., Naugatuck, CT 06770.

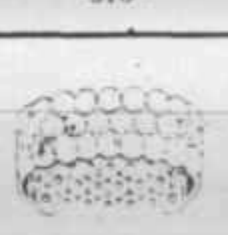

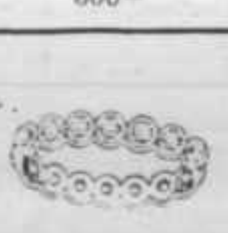

DU-TER is a registered trademark of Uniroyal N.V. Amsterdam, Holland.
