Is this someone you know?

Mary is 84 and has lived in her home for 50 years. She raised two handsome sons and cared for a loving husband. Her husband died five years ago, and her two sons left to start families of their own.

The neighborhood has changed over the years and Mary seldom goes out because she is afraid! She stays in and watches TV alone.

Mary always made sure her family was well fed. Now she rarely has the interest or inclination to cook for herself.

During the last few months, Mary's health has been declining and her visits to the doctor have been increasing. Two weeks ago she spent five days in the hospital because her blood pressure was up and she had been having fainting spells.

We have met many Marys over the years and understand their loneliness and despair. We've created a special living environment for important people like Mary, who need:

- a sense of security,
- the warmth of companionship,
- medical attention,
- nutritious meals
- and someone to rely on in emergencies.

If there is a Mary in your life, call us today for more information and a free copy of the book "When Love Gets Tough." There is no place like home, but we offer the things that make life worth living.

"If there is a Mary in your life, call us today."

Garwood man honored by New Braunfels Chamber of Commerce

Joe Rogers of New Braunfels, son of Mrs. Elsie M. Williams of Garwood and the stepson of the late George (Stool) Williams, was honored January 25 by the Greater New Braunfels Chamber of Commerce with its Bessering Award. The Bessering is the chamber's highest award.

About 800 persons attended the annual chamber banquet. The award came at the end of the banquet program, the "Chamber Olympics."

Joe was born in Plainview, 57 years ago. He received his high school education in Garwood. He joined the Navy on his 17th birthday, and on his 18th birthday, he was landing marines at Iwo Jima. When he returned from the Navy, he entered college in San Marcos where he got his bachelor degree in music. He got his master degree in music while attending summer school at the University of Oklahoma.

Joe became band director for the Seguin school bands in 1951. In 1965, he became band director at New Braunfels and began to set records with the band program. In 1976, Joe became vice principal in charge of student affairs, a position he held for five years, during which time he was elected to life membership in the PTA, a life member of the FFA, and an honorary life member of the Uniforms Band.

Joe has been an active chamber member and in 1968 he was presented with the President's Award. In August 1979, he was elected to the New Braunfels city council and was unopposed in his re-election in 1982. An active longtime

Pesticide safety meeting Feb. 21

Texas currently has enforceable pesticide application standards to prevent unnecessary risk to farmers, farm workers and other rural residents. The Texas Department of Agriculture has published in the Texas Register standards to protect human health. The standards address three areas: re-entry intervals, methods of warning workers and prior notification of neighbors, and become effective on January 21.

In an effort to better inform the agricultural producers of Colorado County about the new pesticide standards now in effect, two public meetings will be held in Colorado County on Thursday, February 21. The Garwood meeting will be held at 7:30 a.m. in the Garwood Implement building. Another meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in Columbus in the County Agricultural Building located at 316 Spring Street.

Presenting the new standards (regulations) will be Charles Leamon, district supervisor for the Texas Department of Agriculture in this area. There are new changes as they apply to aerial application. Leamon will discuss regulations on re-entry intervals and warning methods required under the new standards.

The regulations on re-entry intervals and warning methods will apply only to labor-intensive activities which require workers to make substantial contact with pesticide residues. They do not apply to activities which do not require workers to have substantial contact with pesticide residues. Examples of crop which ordinarily do not require substantial contact are: cotton, wheat, rice, hay or grazing crops, peanuts, rye, alfalfa, sesame, sugarcane, sorghum, corn, barley, soybeans, sugar beets, oats, sunflowers, alfalfa and guar. No will applications made to livestock be affected.

These standards include: Re-entry: established 24-hour re-entry periods for toxicity Category I chemicals (those labeled danger) and procedures to set 24-hour re-entry periods for chemicals that cannot demonstrate an absence of undue chronic effects; establishes a committee to help the department develop appropriate re-entry intervals for pesticides used on Texas crops, and sets interim re-entry intervals of 48 hours for 15 chemicals and seven days for one chemical. Warning Methods: establishes an oral warning as the standard method of alerting workers to stay out of a "hot" field. The posting of flags or signs at designated points of access where workers enter a treated field is required when the re-entry period is seven days or less only if workers are sent into the field before expiration of the re-entry interval. Furthermore, workers who enter treated fields before expiration of the re-entry period, must receive an oral or written warning of the dangers involved, and must wear appropriate protective clothing. However, neither posting nor protective clothing is required if workers are kept out of fields during the re-entry period; requires posting of flags only for those pesticides with re-entry intervals longer than seven days. TDA is not placing any chemicals in this category at this time.

Prior notification (aerial applications only): allows neighbors to request in writing that they be notified the day before pesticides are used on land immediately adjacent to theirs; allows persons with certified health problems to ask for prior notification of spraying within one-fourth mile of their property; allows farmers to give general notice to adjoining landowners by posting a flag, provides exemptions from prior notification rules for emergency pesticide applications.

This program is being sponsored by the Colorado County program building committee in cooperation with the county Extension service.

Adult GED classes in Weimar

Classes for adults who wish to earn the equivalent of a high school diploma (G.E.D.) are invited to enroll in the G.E.D. class being held every Monday and Tuesday evening from 7:15 to 9:15 p.m. in the junior high school cafeteria in Weimar.

The class, offered through Wharton County Junior College and the Weimar Independent School District, is for anyone more than 17 years old and offers training in five categories: math, science, reading, social studies and grammar — to prepare the student to take the high school equivalency test.

Those who pass that test will have the equivalent of a high school diploma, which could open doors to further education or a job not otherwise available.

The Certificate of High School Equivalence is issued by the Texas Department of Education. Persons with the 1974 Industry Category I chemicals (those labeled danger) and procedures to set 24-hour re-entry periods also enroll.

Further information may be obtained by calling Jerry F. Hudec, junior high school principal, at 725-8275 (school) or 265-5829 (home).
