"Texas Day" at playschool.

Playschool ends at Rice

By LAURA APPELT

The home economics classes at Rice conducted their annual playschool during the weeks of May 3 and 12. About 30, three, four and five year olds enjoyed the various activities offered during the morning and afternoon sessions. Some of these included art projects, storytime, free indoor and outdoor play, learning activities and snacktime.

Home economics students observed the children and evaluated their social development and progress made during the two weeks. The homemaker students found it interesting to watch shy and often anti-social children become outgoing and cheerful by the end of the two-week session. These children learned how to play with others their own age. Those who will be entering kindergarten in September got an idea of what school will actually be like.

The youngsters and students alike really enjoyed themselves this year, and both groups learned a great deal from this experience. The home economics department should be commended for making this year's playschool a tremendous success!

audrey williams, being of sound mind and body, do hereby state my last will and testament. To Todd Krensek, I leave my brilliance in working algebraic equations so that he won't have to sit at home every time report cards come out. To Carol Korenek, I leave the ability to get home on time. I know she needs it. I also leave Carol permission to raid my clothes closet whenever she wants while I'm away at school.

I, Laura Appelt, being of sound mind and body, do hereby state by last will and testament. I leave my twirling uniform Renee Balas, whom I knew loves it so much. To Kevin Bandy, I leave a 251 pound bag of flour to use when he is a senior. To Bill Heffner, I leave my purple drumsticks, since he always uses them anyway.

I, senior, do bequeath...

By KELLI LANIER

The senior members of the annual/newspaper staff could not possibly vacate the halls of good 'ole Rice High School without leaving behind something of intellectual and/or material value to those who will return next year. Here are some of the "valuables":

I, Audrey Williams, being of sound mind and body, do hereby state my last will and testament. To Todd Krensek, I leave my brilliance in working algebraic equations so that he won't have to sit at home every time report cards come out. To Carol Korenek, I leave the ability to get home on time. I know she needs it. I also leave Carol permission to raid my clothes closet whenever she wants while I'm away at school.
