Order turkeys by March 23 for County Fair

By Leroy J. Haidek, County Extension Agent

FFA and 4-H Club members planning to feed turkeys for the Colorado County Fair must submit their order to the Colorado County Extension Service office, 316 Spring Street in Columbus by no later than Monday, March 23. The turkey poults will be delivered to the County Extension Service office in Columbus for distribution to the feeders at 4 p.m. on Thursday, April 23.

The turkey poults will be all hens and will cost $1.75 per poult. They will be a white commercial breed and of the same breeding as shown in the 1987 Houston Livestock Show. The minimum per exhibitor order is 15 poults. Show entries may be made only through the county with the same hatch bulk order procedure.

Orders for the poults must be accompanied by a check for the sum due and payable to the Colorado County Boys 4-H Club.

Exhibitors will be eligible to enter one turkey hen in the Colorado County Fair turkey show and sell in the youth sale held in conjunction with the Fair.

Additional details, if needed, may be obtained by contacting the County Extension Service office.

Chamber of Commerce discusses upcoming events

The Eagle Lake Chamber of Commerce met Monday, March 16 at the Snack Center for their monthly meeting. In the abscence of the president, Tom Reed, vice-president, Steve Taylor called the meeting to order. Secretary Gwen Paschall read the minutes of the previous meeting, which were approved with on correction. Michael Henry gave the treasurer's report.

•A committee was formed, headed by Sandy Bendy to investigate the possibilities of the Queen of April Fest representing Eagle Lake on the Chamber float throughout the year. This, along with other options for representation will be considered and brought back to the Chamber for presentation and a vote.

•It was announced that Kay Clipson will be heading the Retail Trade Development committee.

•Irving Williams reported that there are six vacancies at Kevin Courts with one being available for the handicapped.

•Dr. Russell Thomas announced the Memorial Day Bar-B-Que will be held May 25. Gwen Paschall reported that Kate Spalinger volunteered to be in charge of the rice salad. Tickets will be ordered and ticket sales will begin the first part of May.

•Dr. Thomas suggested that the Industrial and Agricultural Development committee look into the possibility and practibility of a minimum security prison for our area. He stated the bill for private jails had come out of committee and there would soon be a vote. With the possibility of prisons becoming part of the private business sector of our state, now is the time to find out as much information regarding this matter, rather than waiting until the companies have found other locations.

The next Chamber of Commerce meeting will be held April 20 at the Dairy Queen. The Chamber hopes that all the directors will be able to attend.

Eating nutritious restaurant meals

By Peggy Braden, County Extension Agent

A 1986 Gallup survey conducted for the National Restaurant Association snows that 6 out of 10 adults have changed their eating habits at home to reflect nutrition concerns, but 4 out of 10 have done the same in restaurants.

For some people, restaurant eating is thought of as an indulgence, or a break from eating what's "good for us". Others may not know how to select restaurant items on the basis of nutrition, or find that it seems like more trouble than it's worth.

Some restaurants are making it easier for patrons by printing calorie counts and other nutrition information on the menu. But if that information isn't available, you'll have to make some educated guesses.

Selecting nutritious restaurant meals is easier than you think.

Start by reading the menu carefully, noting the ways foods are prepared. If you have questions, ask your food server.

In general, ordering a la carte will help control what you actually eat because side dishes are eliminated. When you order food by the meal, you may be tempted to eat foods you ordinarily wouldn't just because you're paying for them.

For an entree, select roasted, baked, broiled or grilled dishes without rich sauces, gravies or breaded. Trim off visible fat on meat or skin on poultry before eating it.

Ask that a vegetable be prepared with no cheese, cream sauce or almonds. If you choose a baked potato, limit or omit the use of butter and sour cream.

Request vinegar and oil for your salad instead of creamy dressings. Try food before salting it. You may be able to get along without it or with less.

If you have a choice, order whole grain bread or buns. When bread is placed on the table, avoid overeating by asking the food server to take it away when you have had your serving.

In Mexican restaurants, ask that the taco chips be taken away after you have had a few, or ask that they not be served at all.

When you can't resist dessert, choose fresh fruit or fruit sherbert.

Perhaps most importantly, when you're full, ask the food server to take your plate and the remaining food from the table.

Children need Social Security numbers in 1987

In order to claim children as dependents on your 1987 tax return, you will need to get social security numbers for children over age four.

These numbers will be required on your 1987 tax return. Application forms are available from the Society Security office.

Try to take care of this early, since there will probably be quite a rush just before the April 15, 1988 deadline.
