Prairie Edge Players to present suspense filled play in mid-March

The Prairie Edge Players' production of Night Must Fall by British playwright Emlyn Williams is set to open in mid-March at the Prairie Edge Museum in Eagle Lake.

Director Dr. Raymond Thomas and producer Helen Craig announce this year's lead roles have been cast to newcomer Greg Fore as Dan, and veteran troop member Vickie Powers as Mrs. Branson. Other cast members include Donna Stephens, Marcia Priemeyer, Vickie Duncan, Glen Sunderman, Lori Marland and Vic Scott.

Night Must Fall was first presented in London in May 1935 with the author appearing as Dan, a lady's man with a sordid past. Also appearing in the original cast was Dame May Whitty as Mrs. Branson, a semi-invalid fussy old lady.

Since its debut the play has enjoyed critical acclaim and today continues to be popular with acting repertoire throughout the world. In 1937 the play was adapted for a movie which starred Robert Montgomery as Dan, with Dame May Whitty repeating her unforgettable performance as Mrs. Branson. The movie was remade in the 60's with Albert Finney; but the film was unable to match the luster of the 30's version.

The Prairie Edge Players invite the public to watch the Headlight for play dates and ticket information as they prepare to present the suspenseful, Night Must Fall.

Catholic Schools — a parent's choice

Recent studies have shown that Catholic Schools could not be as successful as they are without the support, dedication and vitality of the parents — parents who make sacrifices in their own lives for their children to have a Catholic education. St. Anthony School in Columbus joins Catholic schools throughout the nation in celebrating the role and relationship of parents to the vitality of their schools. Activities have been scheduled throughout Catholic Schools Week, January 27 through February 3.

The celebration begins on January 27 with a special Children's Liturgy at 6:30 p.m. at St. Anthony Church. Immediately following the Mass, an Open House will be held until 8:30 at the school for parents and all family members, friends, parishioners and anyone interested in the school. Science Fair projects will be on display in the classrooms. Refreshments will be served in the school cafeteria.

Tuesday's activities will emphasize the partnership between the community and the school. A member of the local police department and an officer of the Department of Public Safety will speak to the students.

Parents will be invited to join their children for a special meal beginning at 11 a.m. on Wednesday. Also scheduled to begin on Wednesday, students will take part in a "Good Egg" activity. Students in Grades 4K-1 will bring a small stuffed animal while students in Grades 2-7 will bring an uncooked egg to school. Students will be responsible for their "child" for a 48 hour period. The purpose of this exercise is to help students realize that their own parents or guardians are responsible for them 24 hours a day, are concerned about preventing injury to them, and often have to change or modify their own plans to accommodate their children.

Students will go to selected businesses in Columbus on Thursday to decorate their windows with posters, drawings and paintings.

To culminate the week's activities, a prayer service will be held at 2:30 with students and guests forming a "Living Heart" on the school grounds.

On Saturday, February 3, the P.T.C. will present the Liturgy for 6:30 p.m. Mass at St. Anthony Church. Other activities are scheduled throughout the week to help students become more sensitive to the skills, tasks and responsibilities of being a parent. Everyone is invited to visit St. Anthony School during this special week to celebrate together as a Church and school community.

Views On Dental Health TREATING GUM DISEASE

If you have a gum disease problem that is serious enough to threaten loss of teeth, your dentist may recommend one of several options in treating this problem. If the teeth are beyond saving, there may be no alternative but to extract them and remove diseased gum tissue so the condition will not spread to other teeth.

When the gum disease is in its early stages, however, your dentist may recommend more conservative treatment, such as subgingival curettage. In this procedure, he will concentrate on cleaning the root surfaces of the teeth and scraping the inside of the soft tissue next to the teeth. By doing this, he may be able to restore your gums and teeth to a healthy condition. Another treatment that may be recommended is called the modified Windman-flap surgery. This involves separating the diseased gum tissue from the teeth and cleaning it as thoroughly as possible. Then the gum tissue is sutured back to the teeth and allowed to heal.

Presented as a public service to promote better dental health. From the office of DAVID W. EUERS, D.D.S., 704 S. McCarty Avenue, Eagle Lake, 234-3525.
