PRAIRIE EDGE MUSEUM

Twenty-two interested people attended the board meeting at Prairie Edge Monday evening. Much of the business on the agenda concerned the Wildflower Tour Activities which will begin Saturday March 31 and continue daily through April 30. The headquarters will be at the museum and the hours for the many interesting activities will be from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Call Vic Scott at 234-2792 if you wish to serve as a host or hostess at scheduled times. There will be a seminar for museum volunteers at 7 p.m. Tuesday March 27.

John Thomas of Wildseed, Inc. told us about many plans that are underway. To date forty-one buses are scheduled to visit Eagle Lake. Lady Bird Johnson will be the Honorary Chairman of the tours. Much publicity is being generated through press releases. There will be great publicity given in magazines, Houston television and radio stations and other locations. Rather than just handing out maps to the visitors mini-newspapers or tabloids will be handed out free. These will include maps, advertisements and other information. Free tickets for wagon rides will be available at Prairie Edge. There will be refreshment booths supplying snacks, soft drinks, iced tea; and there will also be a bakery and country store. All booth spaces at the museum have been sold.

Jeanne Leopold will be happy for you to call her at 234-3373 for a reserved seat ticket for Night Must Fall. These sell for $6.50. The two nights on which the play is to be presented are Friday and Saturday March 23 and 24; and the curtain is due to rise at 7:30 p.m. You may purchase unreserved tickets from museum board members, Gifts of Distinction, Laker Printing and Heights of Texas. Call Helen Craig at 234-2807 if you would like to help with necessary jobs connected with putting on a play. Remember "A smile is a curve that sets things straight". Anon.

Jasek completes 35 years with highway dept.

Woodrow W. Jasek, local highway engineering specialist, recently completed 35 years of dedicated service with the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. He was presented a pin and certificate by Mike W. Behrens, assistant district engineer. Behrens extended his appreciation to Jasek and commended him for his faithful service to the department. Jasek was born in Fayetteville and attended school there. He began his service with the department on July 1, 1954 as a "roadman". Throughout his career with the state, he has held various engineering technician positions. At the present time, he is chief inspector for construction projects in a three-county residency that handles complex urban construction projects and multiple other projects. He is responsible for consulting with the resident engineer concerning needs for ongoing projects and he is very instrumental in training new employees and young engineering assistants. Jasek has served six years in the U.S. Army National Guard. He is a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church. When asked about his hobbies, he lists hunting and ranching as key interests; but has managed to find time to coach a little league team in his spare time. Jasek is married to the former Beatrice Krueger and has six children: Wesley, John, Cynthia, Carrie, Woodrow Jr., and Brian.

About town...

*Kyle Fink, a member of Webelos Den 5, was unintentionally left out of Blue/Gold Banquet awards story last week. He received a naturalist, citizen, readyman and artist badge. Congratulations Kyle.

*The month of March has been designated by Governor William P. Clements Jr. as Women's History Month, Social Work Month and Nutrition Month. Clements asks that all individuals in one of these fields be recognized for their work.

*There will be a film showing during Lent, The Prosecutor, on Sunday, April 1 at 6:30 p.m. at the United Methodist Church. The film is an engaging drama debating the evidence against and for Jesus' resurrection, in a modern trial setting. The community is invited to attend. Becoming a "Banner Builder." Who is a Banner Builder? A person who comes to the United Methodist Church Saturday afternoon, March 10, from 1-5 p.m. to make a banner to hang in the church during the Lent and Worship Seminar. Material will be furnished. This will be a good fellowship activity.

Treatment for Scalp Psoriasis

Psoriasis is a skin condition characterized by reddish, raised, flat patches of skin with silvery coverings called "plaques." According to the Handbook of Nonprescription Drugs, psoriasis accounts for one out of 20 visits to skin specialists in the United States. It is estimated that seven million Americans have some form of psoriasis. Involvement of the scalp occurs in about half of all cases. While no cure for psoriasis exists, the relief of symptoms is important. Keeping the hair and skin clean is essential to preventing skin infection. The goal in treating scalp psoriasis is to remove the scales. This is accomplished through regular applications of topical medicines. Because of the difficulty of applying creams and ointments to the scalp, many specialists recommend topical liquids. Medicated shampoos containing coal tar are frequently prescribed. Certain prescription shampoos contain ingredients which soften thick scalp scales. Nonprescription shampoos containing selenium sulfide and zinc pyrithione may also help remove the scales. Topical steroid solutions (prescription only) relieve redness and may be required if medicated shampoos are not effective.

100th day
The Eagle Lake Primary School kindergarten students celebrated the 100th day of school on February 2, 1990. The children began their count on August 29, 1989. To help mark the 100th day of school, the students made 100 collections consisting of miscellaneous items (cherries, pennies, cookies, candy, etc.). The students also performed 100 exercises on that day. At the end of the day, the classes shared a 100 day cake. ELPS Photo

The Sheridan Volunteer Fire Department participated in a work day training and drill practice Sunday afternoon. Over a dozen men arrived, some bringing new recruits. The purpose of the training was to acquaint everyone with the trucks, equipment, how to load the trucks, and effectively fight fires. A hamburger supper and brief business meeting followed. The department always in need of new members and encourages both men and women to become involved. Get well wishes are extended to Mrs. Ottilie Botard who is a patient in De Tar Hospital in Victoria. Billie Waldean of Pampa, daughter of Walter Bullard, is here spending a few days with her dad. Mrs. C.D. Hadac is still confined to Citizens Hospital in Victoria. Trish Chisum celebrated her ninth birthday with a party at Mr. Gatti's in Hallettsville Saturday, March 5 to register for the upcoming ball season. The meeting began at 6:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria. Coaching positions have been filled for tee-ball, minor league, girl's softball and little league. A coach from Sheridan is still needed for the senior league which is comprised of the local boys and Garwood boys. Tryouts will be March 13 at 5 p.m. at the school. A fundraiser is being planned for April 21. Plans are to have a barbecue chicken dinner at the Sheridan Community Center beginning at 11 o'clock. Donations are being sought for chickens, potatoes, onions or cake. Cash donations also will be greatly appreciated. The meal can only be purchased with advanced tickets. To purchase yours, contact Leatrice Heindold or any members of the various baseball teams.
