Who's zat?

By NATALIE CORDOVA
This little girl started very early for her drivers license. This week's baby driver left all who guessed, with a smile and a confused look as to who this driver was. The only clue given was she is a member of the senior class.
The few wrong guesses that couldn't tell who this face belonged to were Sharra Querner, who thought it was Christina Smith, Brian Amos guessed Rhonda Prazak, Anita Dancy said Kim Corman and Christina Smith guessed Stephanie Causey. Those who knew this adorable lady driver was none other than Charlotte Korenek were Shanna Brunner, Brad Baumgarten, Alfred Puga, Becky Faichtinger and Mr. Wendel.
Charlotte Korenek is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Lee Korenek of Garwood. At school, Charlotte is active in tennis, Business Club, Student Council Secretary and volleyball. Outside of school she enjoys playing the piano and volleyball.

Seniors receive another notch

By CHRISTINA SMITH
On March 9, this year's graduating class received their invitations for the big day, May 31st. Along with invitations, Srs. also received memory books, name cards, and other memorabilia. With the arrival of invitations, Srs. can place one more notch on their belts and another memory in their hearts about their moment in time. GRADUATION 1990!

Cosmetology takes it home

By COSMETOLOGY STAFF
On Friday, March 2, 1990, the cosmetology girls took their mannequins to the district meet in Alvin. They competed in two different divisions and were placed as follows:
Wetsets: Jennifer Hooper, first place; Donna Scherdin, second place; Casandra Williams, first place; Anita Dancy, first place; Sandra Leal, first place; Alfreda Aldridge, second place; Cold Wave: Ira Jones, second place; Jennifer Alvarado, second place; and Trudie Morales, second place. Congratulations! Good luck at State!
Two seniors, Donna Scherdin and Jennifer Hooper composed one of the teams in the speed and skills contest. In this contest, the model is rolled up in rollers, and the contestant operator has to brush her out into one of the present stylish trends. Of the nine entries, these two girls brought home third place. Congratulations to Jennifer and Donna on a job well done.

Disruptive behavior prompts harsh measures Batter up!

By ANESSA WILLIAMS
In a recent publication of the "League", (a newspaper distributed to high schools throughout Texas), Bill Farney, U.L.L. Athletic Director, voiced his opinions on the unsportsmanlike behavior being displayed by some schools during athletic contests.
The U.L.L. had been considering some measures to take in an effort to cut out the unsportsmanlike behavior that is being displayed. Some examples of this behavior are: "A coach tackled a player, pinned him on the floor, and was choking him before other school officials pulled the coach off; players spit on the opponent's mascot; a player from one school sustained a broken arm after a disturbed fan hit him with a chair; and officials have been hit, cursed, and threatened."
Farney states that "Professional and college sporting events display violence, boorish behavior and announcers who question the judgement and integrity of sports officials."
He also informs us of the fact that the Legislative Council is considering steps to take in an effort to bring back into focus what athletics is all about. Some steps being considered are: "Coaches ejected from the games automatically receive a public reprimand, must appear before the State Executive Committee, and must miss at least the next contest; players ejected from games must sit out the next contest as a minimum penalty; and any student representative who assaults, hits, or strikes an official shall be suspended from all U.L.L. activities for not less than one calendar year."
He states that "Serious measures need to be taken before the privilege of participation is lost. We could be nearing the last straw."
Although this is not a major problem at Rice, it is evident in other schools and the Raider Review felt that this is an issue that needs to be addressed. We hope that this article will result in an even better attitude by Rice students.

Student of the week named

By LARAINA PENCE
During the week of March 12-16, Bonnie Benge was selected as the Student Pride Award winner. Bonnie was asked how she felt upon receiving this award, and she answered, "I feel honored, however, it will motivate me to work harder the rest of the school year." Bonnie likes all of her teachers because they encourage her to do her best, and they really care about their students.
Bonnie has been out of sports because of a knee injury, but she is usually involved with track, basketball, and volleyball. She is also a member of the band, student council, U.I.L. One-Act-Play, and she is a varsity cheerleader. Bonnie has other interests that include lifting weights, riding bicycles, playing softball, listening to music, and dancing.
Bonnie is the daughter of Major and Sandra Benge from Eagle Lake.

Raider memories

By DARRYL ANDERSON
This season, the Raider basketball team advanced to the Regional finals where a one point loss prevented them from advancing to the state tournament. It was an immensely successful season, and that prompted the Raider Review to write a story on the year end memories and thoughts of the players, students, and Coach Sam Bell.
The players, those who felt the pressure and excited the fans, were asked to think back on the season and pick out one memory that would remain in their hearts forever. Lloyd Jackson remembered the victory over Liberty Hill in the Area game while Kevin Williams recalled making it to the Regional tournament. Marshan Norris will always remember the district games in which they won nine out of ten games. Brian Amos, Deon Williams, and Scooter Davis all remember Deon's three-point shot from half court at the end of the Regional finals game against Gonzales. Most of the players felt they at least had a chance at the playoffs with Scooter, Marshan, Kevin and Lloyd almost positive. Lloyd felt that better free throw shooting may have given them a little extra push that could have put them in the state tournament. Kevin thought that they could have improved on handling the pressure, and Marshan felt that a little tougher defense may have helped. Deon, Scooter, and Brian all felt that after a full season of practice and hard work, they had done the best they could and wouldn't have changed anything, even if they could have. Their biggest influences came from the college and professional ranks. Lloyd admired Kendall Gill because of his style, Kevin was influenced by Anderson Hunt's defense, Marshan respected Dominique Wilkins' attitude, and Deon liked Derrick Coleman's toughness underneath the basket. Scooter looked up to Michael Jordan because he is "unstoppable" and Brian was most influenced by Armon Gilliam for the same reason. It was a general consensus among all the players that the most valuable thing they had gained from basketball was unity.
The student body were perhaps the Raiders' biggest fans. They remembered the spectacular things - the slam dunks, the blocked shots, the last second shots, and the playoff games. They felt that they really tried hard to rally behind their team and intimidate the opponents. The game they remembered the most varied, but the majority favored the Columbus games, the lone district loss to Sweeny and the Regional playoffs.
Coach Bell, when asked to name a favorite memory, recalled the vast improvements made by the team throughout the season. He felt that he was given all he could ask for when the team improved "from a very average ballclub at the beginning of the year to an excellent team at the end of the year." He felt that they improved both mentally and physically. His favorite aspect of the team was the very fact that they were a team instead of just a few separate individuals. He felt that "They took pride in being the best," and that "their attitude will make them successful in anything they do. When measured to pick one game in which he felt the team played their absolute best, he chose the Area game versus Liberty Hill. During that game, he felt that "Nobody could have beaten us."
After the interviews of the coach, the players, and the student-fans, it was clear that Raider pride was felt by all. The success of the team and their dedication and work ethic rallied the student body behind them and contributed to the resurgence of Raider basketball. The Raider Review extends its congratulations to the Raiders on a season filled with memories for each and every person involved.
