Easter in Lissie

By RUTHIE SEAHOLM

We generally always had a cold snap around Easter. Down on the Coastal Plains that didn't mean the temperature got very low but the mornings were chilly and the air seemed crisper and dryer than usual and was most times clear and rather windy.

Mother always had nests out in the yard for us. That was either before that green shredded paper grass or else Mother thought it either too artificial looking or too expensive to use. Our nests were always made with fresh pulled grass. Our eggs were dyed in bright colors with all kinds of transparencies on them.

We would spend Easter afternoon hiding and finding them over and over again until the eggs were all cracked and spongy.

The church bell would begin its tolling around nine o'clock in the morning and shortly thereafter cars could be seen making their ways over all the country roads toward Lissie and that white church that stood prominently in the center of the town.

The redheaded Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Segelquist with their carload of redheaded kids could be seen coming from Nottawa. Ben and Ruth Anderson and their two blue eyed boys would be driving in on the Chesterville road just behind or in front of Mr. and Mrs. Art Anderson and Joe who planned to be a preacher when he grew up.

The Wieses would be loaded in their car. Mrs. Wiese's pink jolly face alongside Mr. Ed's dark handsome one.

The massive frame of that grand old Dane, Mr. Peter D. Gertson minimized his green coupe as well as that tiny grey haired figure beside him.

Coming from the county line, Aunt Minnie, Uncle Everett and Lillian joined the caravan along with the Adkins with Jim Bill and his friendly freckled face and Edgar with his horned rimmed glasses.

Mr. Briggs, Leroy and Barbara turned out on the road from their house just a few hundred yards from that road which gave access to Aunt Emma's.

These were only a few of those families headed for church on an Easter Sunday morning in Lissie, Texas in the 1920's.

Most of the town people would walk and each road would offer up a clutch of them by the time it arrived at the church.

People would pause outside to hail one another. Kids would scamper around like young colts paying little heed to the admonishments of their parents about "messin' up their clothes". New slick soles on new slick grass oftentimes slid out of control and landed their owners on the ground. A grass stain on a new dress or new white pants was a catastrophe.

All the girls had on organdy dresses of some style and color, mostly pastel. Hair styles were short straight bobs all freshly cut.

The boys had new white ducking pants and white shirts.

Back in those days all new shoes squeaked. As people filed into the church everyone's shoes made quite a chorus. The organdy dresses were starched stiff and crisp and they all made rustling noises as their wearers walked in and whispering sounds as they slid into their seats.

Some of the folks had grown up children who had moved to Houston. These children always came home for Easter and they in their city clothes would command everyone's attention. How well I remember loving to see the Cassady girl and her handsome husband. She wore the highest heels, silk or pongee dresses, and the fanciest hats I had ever seen. He was handsome in his white suit and brown and white shoes.

The ladies would be wearing flowered voiles and new hats. Their chapped hands showed traces of the gardening they had been involved in for some weeks now.

Some brought their own straw fans. Others had picked up the fans that had been distributed along the pews. The one with a picture of Jesus carrying a lamb on the front - the name of the local feed store on the back.

Although a honeysuckle laden breeze was blowing in the open windows, the packed church plus heavy corsets had generated a heat and the ladies were briskly but quietly dispelling it.

Some of the men wore summer suits but most of them having only one suit had simply changed their felt hats for straws. The more dapper ones had hauled out their straw katies.

The choir was made up mostly of young people and on Easter Sunday, the young ladies, self conscious in their new spring dresses, would try to appear nonchalant.

The preacher sat in the big chair behind the pulpit. His shiny black suit was creased razor sharp and his high top shoes were polished to a luster. His stiff starched shirt buckled across his thick chest and his tie fell below the stiff collar with its bright gold stud. The sun coming in from the east window made his white hair shine. His smooth shaven cheeks were ruddy and robust. A smile crept across the mouth beneath his handsome moustache and his blue eyes crinkled.

There were bouquets of cut Easter lilies on the rail just in front of the pulpit, and a big mass of roses, Indian blankets, blue bonnets and buttercups were in a vase on the piano.

The partition at the back of the church had been raised and soon there were no empty spaces left in the whole church.

The squeaking of the shoes, the rustling of the organdies and the murmur of the conversations ceased as the tall slenderly built lady took her place at the piano.

Her long fingers came down on the keys. The choir and the congregation rose and offered their voices in joyous song.

After the last note of the last chorus was sounded, the voice of Mrs. Gertson called out in prayer to "Our Father Who Art in Heaven". Her short, small boned figure belied her ability to have hoed her garden and churned large wooden churns of butter all through the previous week.

Now, with head bowed and gnarled hands grasping the back of the pew, she gave thanks for the past week and asked blessings on everyone for the coming days. In a cracked emotional voice she begged that all those not present in the church, most particularly her sons, would see the light and again take their places with the faithful.

After the prayer, Mr. Art Anderson and Mr. Dave Thomas passed the collection plates and the sound of metal clinking was far more frequent than the rustle of paper money.

As the plates were brought to the pulpit, Clara Thomas rose to her full five feet. Her sweet timid face glanced to the congregation. Her ample bosom rose and fell in nervousness as she wiped her mouth with a handkerchief.

Her pretty daughter Alice took a place at her side and soon Alice's sweet soprano lifted above the low beauty of Clara's harmonizing alto.

At the conclusion of the special song, the preacher stood before the pulpit and with rough work-worn hands opened the bible and began to quote as much as reading "And they found the stone rolled away..."

So it was on an Easter Sunday in the 1920's when the congregation at Lissie, Texas joined the rest of the Christian world in proclaiming the resurrection.

7th, 8th grade boys are District champs

Both Raider seventh and eighth grade track teams captured District titles in the meet on Friday, April 6. This was a repeat performance for the eighth grade as they were district track champs last year. It was a great ending to a fine track season for the boys track team. The seventh grade ended the year undefeated in four meets.

I would like to congratulate these young men on their tremendous accomplishments. We would also like to thank the participants from Garwood and Sheridan.

Results of the meet are as follows:

Eighth Grade

Running Events — 400 meter relay team of Thomas, Chapman, Parker and Barrios, first, 51.11 seconds; 800 meter run: Bennie Gonzales, second, 2:24.74, Alex Blanco, fourth, 2:39.90, and Cam Muzny, sixth, 2:49.11; 110 hurdles, Thomas, first, 17.38, Tim Jones, second, 19.82, and Neil Broesche, fifth, 22.12; 100 meter dash: Thomas, second, 12.70, and Hurd, fifth, 15.85; 400 meter dash: Barrios, first, 59.77; 200 meter dash: Parker, fourth, 27.55; 300 meter hurdles: Chapman, first, 47.15, Jones, second, 50.51, and Hurd, third, 51.52; 1600 meter run: Gonzales, second, 5:43.36, and Blanco, fourth, 6:10.16; 1600 meter relay team of Hurd, Chapman, Barrios, Gonzales, first, 4:12.42.

Again, congratulations go out to these young men for their fine individual and team performances. There is no (I) in team and it took a team performance to win these titles.

The coaching staff would like to especially thank the following people for their help in making our year a success:

Jack Sanders for his hard work with the hurdlers every morning at 7:30; Ms. Marshall for her help with the girls' program and support; Bennie Machac, coach at Sheridan for helping us at the district meet; Mike Michalka, coach at Garwood for helping at the district meet; Veronica Parker: coach (girls) at Garwood for helping at the district meet; Tim Teykl, head coach and athletic director of Rice ISD for helping at the district meet, and Ms. McMillan, girls' coach at Sheridan.

There were many people that would take a long time for me to list that also helped make our year successful. Thanks to you all. We greatly appreciate it. We will now prepare for next season in our off season program and get ready for football.

Raiders whip the Cardinals 11-6

With a rain out last Friday, the Rice Raiders met Needville Saturday, April 7, losing 5-3.

But the Raiders proved strong, coming back Tuesday afternoon to beat arch rivals Columbus Cardinals 11-6. This win makes Rice 2-1 in district and 5-10 on the year.

Losing pitcher against Needville was Kevin Jackson, 0-3 for the year.

Leading hitters for Rice were Bobo Botard, 2 for 4 with two doubles and one RBI, and Jackson with one RBI.

Wade Satsky was the winning pitcher in the Columbus match and stands at 2-0 in district and 4-4 on the year. Jackson had a save as the relief pitcher. They allowed only six hits and making no errors in the game defensively.

Leading hitters were Chris Rodriguez, 1 for 2 and scored three runs; Whitey Dopslauf with two RBI's; Satsky, 2 for 4 and drove in three runs; Michael Popp, 2 for 4 with a double, and Casey Clipson, 2 for 4 with two RBI's.

The next game will be Tuesday, April 17 at 7:30 p.m. at Rice against Sweeny.

Public hearing to discuss hunting, fishing regulations

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials have scheduled public hearings to receive public comments on the proposed changes in hunting and fishing regulations for 1990-91.

A hearing has been scheduled for 7 p.m. April 18 at the Colorado County Courthouse in Columbus.

The public is encouraged to attend and comment on the proposals, which will be considered for final adoption by the Parks and Wildlife Commission on May 24. Proposed changes include a 10-inch minimum length limit for crappie, a 15-inch minimum for spotted seatrout and several changes in white-tailed deer regulations including a statewide prohibition on the use of dogs to hunt deer.

Eagle Lake runners participate in races

The Eagle Lake runners have been in action the past few weeks participating in several races. Charles Abel ran at Clear Lake at the Bay Area Pilot Club 5K Fun Run and then ran in Houston at the Azalea 5K Fun Run along with Jack, Becky and Robert Swanson, Dan Canaris and Charles Garrett. Lisa Thom and her dog Cagney ran in the Purina Chow Dog Run on March 11th. It was a real dog-day afternoon. But, dog-gone it, she didn't come in first because she was so dog-tired from dogging it all afternoon. But, the dog-woods were out and in bloom. That's enough barking up the wrong tree so back to running. Charles Abel and Lisa Thom again were in action running in the Bayou City 5 mile run in Houston. The next major event had ten people from Eagle Lake participating in the Capitol 10,000. Along with 22,000 other runners Dan Canaris, Charles Abel, Jack and Becky Swanson, Vicky Duncan, Lisa Thom, and ELMS students Hector Flores, Martha de la Garza, Meredith Anderson and Robert Swanson all ran the 6.2 mile race in Austin on April 1st (and that's no April's Fool). Cheering us on were Mark and Becky Anderson, Sue Canaris, and Rudy and Martha Flores.

Last, but not least, Charles Abel, Dan Canaris, John Brasher and Terry Strauss all participated in the Brenham Blue Bell 10K Fun Run on April 7th. These people really ran so they could stuff themselves afterwards on Blue Bell Ice Cream. If you are interested in running or going with us to area fun runs, contact any of the above mentioned runners for more details. See you at the races.

Rice golf participates in its last invitational tournament

On Tuesday, April 3, the Rice Raider golf team participated in the Boling High School Invitational Golf Tournament at the New Gulf Country Club. Eleven complete teams participated; with the host Boling team placing first and Sweeny High placing second. Shawn Diddear of Boling and Tim Loesch of Sweeny tied with the low score of 78 making them the tournament medalists.

Included in the tournament were all five golf teams of district 28-AAA with district tournament to follow on April 10 at the Columbus Golf Course.

The teams and scores for our district were: Sweeny, 342; Needville, 344; Columbus, 381; Palacios, 386; and Rice 435. The team scores for Rice individuals were: Chris Rodriguez, 88; Shane Glaiser, 109; Glenn Lipperdt, 118; and Jaime Marquart, 120. The Raiders have one week to practice to lower individual scores and lower the team score to move upward from the district basement. As they practice in the days ahead, encourage and let individual team members know the Rice Raider public is behind and with them.
