Wintermann Library's Camp Wanna-Read comes to a close

The Eula and David Wintermann Library experienced a very successful Camp Wanna-Read Summer Reading Program. Children from the age of 4 years to completed 5th grade came to the library every Wednesday during June and July for a very exciting "camping experience". Movies were shown every Thursday.

One hundred and thirty-one children participated in the program with 77 children completing the program by reading more than ten books. Certificates were given to all children completing the program.

At the closing program on July 31, awards were given to the children reading the most books. For the children who were unable to attend the final program, please go by the library to pick up your certificate.

During June and July a total of 964 Junior Fiction books and 2829 Easy Readers were checked out.

Wanda Center, librarian, would like to express her appreciation to all those who made the program a success. To all those mothers and teachers who helped with the program, to all the mothers who brought the children to the library and most of all to the children who participated.

Top readers

During Camp Wanna-Read's closing ceremonies last Wednesday the participants pictured above were recognized as the top readers in the summer program. They were, in order of their achievement with the number of books they read: Raynee Rangel, 64; Eyan McClain, 62; Erica Rangel, 60; Misty Morales, 52; Saul Rangel, 52; Stephanie Jackson, 51; Amanda Sosa, 45; Ashley Waligura, 43; Mary Blount, 42; Craig Waligura, 41, and Cindy Osornio, 41. Congratulations to these children and everyone who participated.

VBS

Vacation Bible School was held last week at Lehrer Memorial United Methodist Church in Garwood. About 45 youngsters of several denominations enjoyed a week studying the Bible and learning God's word. The theme for the school was "Share God's Blessing". After five days of lessons and fun, the young people invited their parents to share the blessings they had received. On Friday evening they entertained the adults with music and inspired readings. Then everyone moved to the educational building for an ice cream social. There the students got to share their week's work and show off their creative talents to their parents.

Jane Wied directed this year's vacation bible school. She expressed her thanks to everyone who contributed to the success of the school. It takes a lot of planning and dedication to bring about such an event. The opportunity for our children to learn of Christ's love makes it all worthwhile though. We would like to add our gratitude to Jane's for all the people whose generosity and commitment made it a reality.

WINNERS

Two of our young ladies did very well in the Wallis Old-Time Fun Festival pageant recently. Leigh Ann Michalka was crowned WOFF Princess and Julia Birmingham was runner-up. The theme of the pageant was Hawaiian and the girls looked great in their island costumes. Leigh Ann wore a flowered sarong and Julia chose a grass skirt. Leigh Ann's parents are Mike and Georgia Michalka and she was sponsored by the Garwood Lions Club. Julia's parents are Carl and Jana Birmingham and her sponsor was the Bride's House of Columbus. Congratulations, girls!

VISIT

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Becak traveled to visit their family last month. Their son David and his wife Sonia live in Elkins Lake near Huntsville. The Becaks got to celebrate the arrival of a new granddaughter Shelby and have fun with her older brothers John David and Ross.

They also visited their daughter Karen and her husband Mark Lambert.

in Dallas

While there they celebrated their granddaughter Johanna's first birthday.

The Becaks were visited here by their son Wayne and grandson Ryan who live in Corpus Christi.

CHEERS

Garwood School's cheerleaders for this school year will be Kristen Stienke, Misty Smidovec, Carrie Engstrom and Rachelle Kallina. These four cheerful and enthusiastic young ladies held a clinic for girls interested in learning cheers and routines last week. From the looks of the size of the turnout, it appears our local sports teams will have some great support as they take to the field or courts this season.
