J. Frank Monk of Bellville was in Eagle Lake recently to pick his new Deere. He won a John Deere AMT 626 at the National Cutting Horse Asso-ciation (NCHA) World Championship Futurity Finals in Dallas. He came to pick up his prize from the local John Deere dealer. Draper Stephens, manager of Eagle Lake mplement Company, handed over the keys. Mr. Monk stated, "The AMT will be a handy piece of equipment for horse stall cleaning, feeding, cutting calves, hay and feed hauling, and general ranch work."

County Soil and Water District receives LCRA Environmental Award The Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District received the 1991 LCRA (Lower Colorado River Authority) Environmental Award for Colorado County. The award was presented at the Dec. 17 Lion's Club meeting in Weimar.

This is the first year that LCRA has presented the awards in each county along the lower Colorado River. Nominations for this year's county award were judged by the Colorado County Water Council, chaired by Thomas Hudec. They recognize individuals or groups who have made a significant contribution to water quality in each of the ten counties on the Colorado River.

LCRA General Manager Mark Rose spoke on the state of the river and the agency's water quality programs. Accepting the award for the district was Chairman George Cason, The Soil Conservation Service (SCS) was also commended for their technical service. Representing the SCS was Connie Fair.

"The district was chosen because
