Council

The surveying has become confused. Gene Shanks, owner of Farm & Ranch, proposed a solution to the problem which would give everyone what they want. If the City will withdraw its offer on the Reading property, Farm & Ranch will buy it and deed back the portion to the City which is necessary for the 250 foot safety zone. With the addition of this block of land to what Shanks already owns, Farm & Ranch will be able to build a fertilizer loading area on its own land and the City won't have to purchase more land than is really necessary for the zone along the runway and will not be faced with the possibility of having to obtain a storm water discharge permit.

Since discussion of the actual purchase of the land was not included on Tuesday night's agenda, Council could not act on the proposal (as prescribed by state law). A special meeting was called for 8 p.m. Friday, Feb. 28th, at which time Council will be able to act on Shanks' proposal.

Even though he understood the legalities involved, Shanks asked for some type of indication as to Council's thoughts on the matter due to the short time left before planting. Van Nort asked the members of Council if there were any objections to the proposal. None were voiced.

Acting City Manager Lucille Perry asked Shanks about the expenses the City had already incurred on the property (surveying, etc.). He agreed to include these expenses in his company's purchase of the property.

Other Council Business

*Council set Saturday, May 2nd, as the date for the general election. The positions held by Vic Corman and Lonnie Sommerlatte as well as Mayor Van Nort's will be on the ballot.

*Phyllis Thomas was appointed as the presiding election judge for the May 2nd election with Pat Cook serving as alternate election judge.
