LETTER TO THE EDITOR

We need a School Board that listens

To Whom It May Concern:

I attended the School Board Meeting last Thursday night in support of Coach Sanders.

During this meeting, citizens had the opportunity to hear parents tell of what Coach Sanders has meant to them. Among these, two told of how they owe their children's lives to him. He gave his time to help when he did not have to. We do not find this interest very often. The words we heard drew tears from everyone there, except for members of our School Board.

Members seemed to have been bored and others seemed as though they couldn't look at the speaker and had to write instead.

I feel when citizens come before the board, they could at least have the courtesy to look at the speaker. It was a very cold feeling. We felt that our concerns were important enough to bring them to the board and I would hope they could and would feel the same.

With the School Board election coming up, I hope these citizens think long before voting and see exactly where we are at now and where we would like to be. We need someone who will listen to our concerns because, as Mrs. Holden said, "Our children are priceless."

I also understand that there are laws that state that personnel records are confidential, but I also know there is not a law that prohibits them from listening and supporting our concerns. Personnel records are written by people who may not know the person as well as he should. Maybe he doesn't like someone personally, but he takes action for his profession. This may not be the case, here, but if it is a professional problem, I can see it as being bad enough to ask him to resign.

If one board member, whom I respect, knows what is going on, why would they vote to re-hire his contract? She has children in the middle school and she didn't see it as bad enough to vote to non-renew a contract.

A recent petition was sent around and there were approximately 750 signatures on it. This says that Sanders is well respected by many. Can this many citizens be wrong? I really don't think so. Maybe the board should get to know him as we all do on a day to day basis.

Recently we formed an organization called "Concerned Citizens of R.C.L.S.D.". This is in support of our teachers and principals. We were referred to last week as a "lynch mob" and I would like to say this could not be further from the truth.

We are concerned about our children and their future. We ask our School Board to be open-minded and listen to our concerns. This is why we need to elect candidates who will do this. Ones that can look at us when we talk and ones who think we are not boring.

Candidates run because they are concerned with our children, not because they have "axes to grind". Think about what has been accomplished thus far and what can be accomplished.

Still no solution in sight for education financing

Gov. Ann Richards admitted last week that legislative leaders still have no agreement on how to change the state's school finance system, which has been struck down by the Texas Supreme Court.

Richards said she won't call a special legislative session until an understanding is reached. "I don't want to spend taxpayer money unless I get a consensus, and I can get a bill," Richards said after meeting with Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock and House Speaker Gib Lewis. "There is no consensus among the members."

Last session, lawmakers created County Education District school property taxes. The Texas Supreme Court later ruled them unconstitutional, but they are still being collected.

Lawmakers now may be delaying until U.S. District Judge James Nowlin rules whether those taxes can still be collected. If he says they cannot be collected, the heat will be on lawmakers to defuse taxpayer anger over higher property taxes that were illegal, but collected anyway.

The Supreme Court has given the state until June 1993 to act.

Black Inmate Rate

Speaking of heat and education, state Rep. Ron Wilson, D-Houston, charged the lack of a decent education system is one of the reasons for skyrocketing increases in black state prisoners.

Wilson, whom many regard as the voice of influence in the House Black Caucus, was reacting to a study which shows that last year Texas had 1,414 black prisoners per 100,000 black citizens, more than double the 683 prisoners per 100,000 rate in 1985.

Other groups on the prisoners-per-100,000 scale: Hispanics rose from 173 prisoners in 1985 to 293 in 1991; whites increased from 122 in 1985 to 167 last year. Overall changes in prison populations for that period, based on ethnicity, are: whites down 12%; Hispanics up 2%; and blacks up 10%.

Wilson said most black prisoners probably function on the sixth grade level. "They deny us the money and the resources," he said.

Remember the Old Gang?

El Paso U.S. Rep. Ron Coleman found his name high on the list of the worst check bouncers at the U.S. House Bank. Coleman, a former state representative, was a member of "the Gang of Four," the media's moniker for four firebrand members who plagued the regime of House Speaker Billy Clayton.

Other members were Luther Jones of El Paso; John Bryant of Dallas; and John Whitmire of Houston, all attorneys.

Like a group of blitzing linebackers, the four liberals constantly dogged Clayton and his lieutenants during floor debate and committee hearings, providing serious and amusing diversions amid Clayton's business-as-usual dynasty.

Bryant, the leader, ran for speaker against Clayton in 1981, made a decent showing, but lost and the rebels' outlook was grim.

In 1982, the scene changed. Clayton fell out of power in the British scandal; Coleman and Bryant won congressional seats; Whitmire crossed the rotunda to the Senate; and Jones went home to become a county judge. Bryant hasn't changed. Last week, he fired the first shot of open revolt against congressional leadership by urging U.S. Speaker Thomas Foley to step down. "Foley refuses to be a political leader for Democrats," Bryant charged in a speech on the House floor. Foley says he's staying put.

And the rest of the gang? Whitmire went on to become a Democrat power runner in the Texas Senate, but lost his

Other Highlights

House Appropriation Committee chairman Jim Rupp, D-Brownfield, wrote House colleagues he is very close to the 76 votes needed to become speaker in January.

Other candidates immediately discounted Rupp's claim as political strategy that is premature. Other front-runners? Take your pick: Pete Laney of Hales, Texas; a big money raiser; or Tom Uher of Bay City, who counts on blending experience with reform.

Gov. Richards has appointed two district attorneys in West Texas: John Mann of Shamrock to replace Harold Comer of Pampa, who resigned; and Albert Valadez of Fort Stockton to replace Richard Barajas, who is now a judge on the 8th Court of Appeals.

With Texas Republicans calling for a federal investigation of that agency, Democrats weren't about to elect a party chairman who might later face indictment and a grand jury trial.

Ruby Reinhardt vs. Anita Evancick,

'Week of the Young Child' saluted April 5-11

Focusing public attention on the needs and rights of young children is the goal for "Week of the Young Child" April 5 through 11. Designating the week was begun in 1971 by the National Association for the Education of Young Children and is sponsored locally by the Colorado County Youth and Family Services. County Judge H.O. Strunk signed a proclamation declaring this the "Week of the Young Child" in Colorado County.

Colorado County Youth and Family Service, which focuses on improving the lives of families and children in the county, provides a network of schools, social agencies, civic groups, churches and community to work together to help families. The service is currently conducting a nurturing program to help parents and children improve their communication and decision making skills.

The program is conducted by trained volunteers dedicated to strengthening and improving the family. Children need families with emotional resources and time. They suffer when parents, teachers and care providers are too tired or stressed to give them the attention they need.

Every individual can make a difference in the lives of young children. Here are some suggestions to start:

- Take time to watch, listen and appreciate children.
- Make sure children have access to and receive the preventive health services so vital to their development.
- Contribute in some way to the improvement of the quality of early education and care programs.
- Make your community more attuned to children's needs.
- Examine how policies can support children and families. Make decision-makers accountable for their actions.

The future of today's child as tomorrow's adult depends on each of us. For more information call 409-732-8721.
