Four from Rice among best teachers

A select group of America's teachers are being honored by their toughest critics, their former students, in the third edition of Who's Who Among America's Teachers, 1994.

Local educators honored in Who's Who Among America's Teachers, 1994 include Jewell M. Coreathers and Tommie Lynn Holden, teachers at Rice High School; and Gwendolyn

Ward Knight and Raymond J. Sykowski from Eagle Lake Middle School. All of the 66,500 teachers being honored were selected by their former students who themselves were currently listed in Who's Who Among High School Students or National Dean's List publications which recognize the top 5% of our nation's high school and college students respectively.

Paul Krouse, publisher of Who's Who Among America's Teachers said, "There is no greater honor teachers can receive than to be recognized by former students for their excellence and dedication. In this publication we clearly have the best teachers in America selected by the best students."

The students were requested to nominate teachers who "made a difference in their lives" by helping to shape their values, inspiring interest in their subject and/or challenging them to strive for excellence. Many of the students commented about the enthusiasm and knowledge their teachers demonstrated in the classroom, and many praised their teachers for their ability to relate to youngsters on a personal as well as a professional level.

the respondents don't think government should have the right to restrict how private property is used, while 38% believe the government should have the right to restrict how private property is used to protect the environment.

Also, the poll said, 81% think landowners should be compensated when their property value goes down because of government regulations.

Texas Second in Tourism

Texas remains the second-most visited state in the nation, according to the Texas Department of Commerce.

A record 157 million domestic visitors traveled to Texas last year, a 9% increase over the previous year. California ranked first with 258 million visitors, while Florida came in third with 122 million.

Yard of the Month features fall scene

The home of Ann and Eddie Pavliska on Partridge Lane was chosen by the Civic Garden Club as the Oct. Yard of the Month.

The clever autumn display in the front yard captured the Garden Club's attention. However, the entire yard is a testament to much careful planning and planning by the Pavliskas.

The left side of the front yard is the site of the cute display of pumpkins in a wheelbarrow centered between a handcrafted scarecrow and an antique milk can. Another antique milk carrier is filled with blooming chrysanthemums. Pumpkins spill out of the wheelbarrow onto the ground and a corn shock stands in the background.

Pansies, which were grown from seeds by the Pavliskas, surround the two big shade trees in the front yard. These pansies will provide a colorful display throughout the winter and early spring.

Flower beds on both sides of the house are lush with waxleaf ligustrum and boxwoods.

The front porch welcomes visitors with large pots of blooming impatiens, geraniums and Japanese maple along with colorful Caladium pots and red salvia.

The left side of the house has an azalea bed ready to bloom in early spring. In front of the garage are more large pots filled with labelia and petunias.

A lovely English garden on the right side of the front yard is a point of interest. The kidney-shaped bed is landscaped with native yarrow, helenium and dwarf yarrow, housed among some interesting large stones found by the owners especially for this garden.

On the west side of the house you will find plumbago as well as a large pin oak tree surrounded by begonias. You will also see pots of pink, yellow and violet mandarinella.

Both Ann and Eddie enjoy gardening and their talents and efforts are very visible in their lovely yard.

A drive by their home at 712 Partridge Lane will inspire every gardener and be enjoyed by everyone who sees it.

The choice for the Oct. Yard of the Month is the home of Ann and Eddie Pavliska at 712 Partridge Lane. Featured in the front yard is a fall display of corn stalks, pumpkins, hay and even a scarecrow.

Standing with the Eagle Lake Civic Garden Club's honor sign are Ann Pavliska and club president, Linda Balas.

A Lifetime of Commitment to Rural Texas Family Values

Greg Laughlin has a proven record concerning the protection of private property rights. Greg's support of property rights dates back to his first term in Congress in 1989. He co-sponsored the Wetlands Conservation Act to provide compensation to property owners of valuable wetlands. Greg Laughlin is fighting to put common sense into the Endangered Species Act and Wetlands regulations. Congressman Greg Laughlin has co-sponsored these and other property rights bills:

- PRIVATE PROPERTY PROTECTION ACT OF 1993
- COMPREHENSIVE WETLANDS CONSERVATION AND MANAGEMENT ACT OF 1993
- ENDANGERED SPECIES ACT PROCEDURAL REFORM AMENDMENTS 1993
- PRIVATE PROPERTY OWNERS BILL OF RIGHTS 1994

Greg Laughlin has a proven record on property rights. The Friends of Agriculture at the Texas Farm Bureau recognize Greg's leadership and record on the issue. That's why he has wide spread support among farmers and ranchers. The Texas Farm Bureau's recent analysis of Greg's record gives him more than 90% rating on issues relating to private property rights. We all want to protect the environment, but isn't it time for a common sense approach before rural property owners become the next endangered species.
