By Ashley Cranek On Saturday, Jan. 21, nurse Sharon Webb and teacher Judy Puste-jovsky held an adult, child and infant CPR class at Eagle Lake Primary School. The class was open to all Rice faculty and staff with 13 attending.

After completion of the class, the participants took a written test which everyone passed. Mrs. Pustejovsky noted that this was on a volunteer basis and she was pleased with the response of so many concerned teachers.

It's good to know that we have experienced teachers here at Rice who can help students if trouble arises.
