2 Personals

In Loving Remembrance of Mabel Larsen of Rock Island, Texas Gone, But Not Forgotten

Sometimes when things go wrong for us, it's easy to forget the happiness we've seen and the good fortune that we've met. Those rough times can be good times to think of friends we've known, of favors that they've done for us, of kindness that they've shown. To think of fun-filled times we've spent, nice places that we've been. Of the beauty that life offers us time and time again. And then a day when things go wrong can turn into a day for us to think how very often things have gone our way.

When things don't seem their brightest, may it help to keep in mind that you're thought about by others who are hoping you will find more strength with each tomorrow, new joys to light your way, and feelings of contentment in the blessing of each day.

I miss you Mom, Betty Lou
