Foot Facts

By Dr. Eric R. Tepper, Podiatrist

WHEN GOUT GETS YOU DOWN

Gout isn't exactly a glamour disorder, something you glimpse in the headlines at the checkout stand, or catch celebrities discussing on talk shows. It is, however, a surprisingly common problem, particularly among middle-age, overweight men. While gout can affect many sites throughout the body, its most frequent target is the big toe. Acute inflammation causes the toe to become red, swollen, and extremely painful. It can make walking excruciating and your whole life seem miserable. Gout actually stems from a buildup of uric acid in the joints, brought about either by an overproduction of uric acid or by the kidney's inability to rid the body of it fast enough. The acid hardens into crystal deposits around the joints. Gout has been linked to eating rich foods and drinking alcohol.

While our specialty is feet, our work in podiatry can affect all parts of the body. And as podiatrists, we have a unique opportunity to get an insight into how other systems of the body are working. With our knowledge and experience, your cooperation, teamwork with other medical care givers, and the power of podiatry, we'll have you again walking with a smile. Call 234-5571, at Rice Medical Center, for an appointment. I am there every Tuesday.

P.S. Diuretics used to treat high blood pressure can either trigger a case of gout or make an already existing one worse.
