Who's Zat?

By Namita Verma

Can you guess the identity of this brown-eyed cutie pie? (See picture at left.) The only clue given was that this sweetheart is currently a junior. Not too many people were fooled trying to guess, but a couple of people did slip.

Nicole Owers could have kicked herself when she replied Coy Sunderman.

Pete Rangel and Jonathan Pope were left in the dust after they incorrectly guessed Chad Kallina.

David Rangel didn't win anything when he guessed James Bacon.

Shaniqua Moody, Justin Jobe and Delana Smith simply stared and exclaimed, "I don't know!"

So who could this little angel be that was too hard for these people to guess?

Chad Kallina, Jose Garza, Lainee Labay, Joe Romo and Amalie Kucherka all knew that this baby boy is none other than Drue Dulany. "The nose gave it away," commented Amalie.

Drue recalls his fondest childhood memories as spending time with his family at get togethers.

He is involved in cross-country, powerlifting and plans on playing football next fall.

The people he admires most include his family members and other loved ones.

Drue is the son of Lana and Larry Dulany of Eagle Lake.

On the weekends, he enjoys hanging out with friends.

Who's Zat?

This little girl is all ready to go swimming, but who could it be? This picture was shown to some of the student body at RHS. The only clue given is that she is currently a junior.

Susana Silva almost drowned with her answer of Angie Leopold. Brezchet Adams just knew this bathing beauty with dark skin had to be Cori Gertson. Tiffany Wilkerson almost fell out of the boat with her answer of Lori Grigar.

However, Barrett Thomas, Valerie Galvan, Delana Smith and Shaniqua Moody were't fooled. They knew this face belonged to Rebal Canaris.

She is involved in volleyball, track and golf and a member of the Raider Band, Student Council and the National Honor Society. She is also a varsity cheerleader and junior class reporter.

Her proud parents are Dan and Sue Canaris of Eagle Lake.

Rebal enjoys spending time with her friends and grandparents.

Meet the Lady Raider

By Jenny Hajovsky

This week, shining brightly in the Lady Raider spotlight, is senior Tierra Wright. Tierra is a member of the varsity girls track team.

Recently, Tierra placed second in both the 100 meter hurdles and the triple jump at the district meet in Columbus. Her success in district qualified her to compete in the regional track meet May 1 and 2 in College Station.

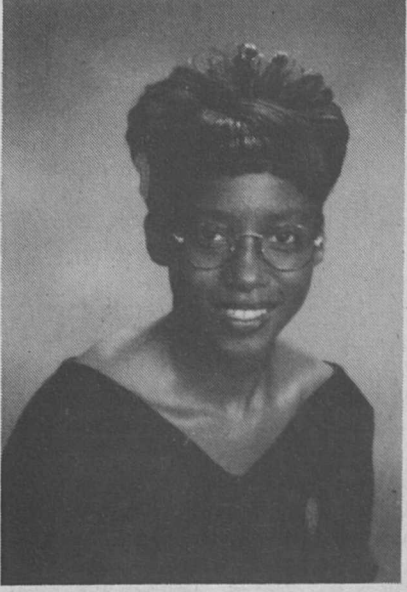

When asked about how she felt about her success, Tierra replied, "Basically, I worked hard for my accomplishments. All of us did, although there were only four of us."

Tierra felt that the coaches were very difficult and, "Coach Henry is a great motivator."

Although she is glad track season is almost over, she feels that Regionals will be the biggest challenge for her.

Tierra also plays basketball and is the daughter of Shelia Wright of Eagle Lake.

On the weekends, she likes to just "straight parlay."

Recently, the Rice FFA Livestock Judging Team competed in the last Livestock Judging contest of the year at the Wharton County Fair.

Senior Judgers were Scott Bittner, Amy Obenhaus, Brooke Cranek, Jacob Little and Brett Boenisch.

The team of Cranek, Little and Boenisch placed second and Cranek ranked third high individual.

Judging in the junior division were Chad Mahalitic, Camille Staff, Lauren Spanihel, Jamie Till and Jess Little.

Cliff Cerny entered his six-bale hay van in the Agricultural Mechanics Contest at the Wharton County Fair.

He won grand champion and received $8,000 for his hard work, after selling the van.

Congratulations to all the contestants at the county fair and to the judges for a successful year!

NHS inducts eight

On Wednesday, April 29, the Rice High School Chapter of the National Honor Society (NHS) held its 1998 Induction Ceremony.

The current President, Jenny Hajovsky welcomed everyone.

The other officers, Jonathan Burrow, Lainee Labay, Lori Grigar and Angie Leopold, then read paragraphs about scholarship, service, leadership and character, respectively.

Friday, April 24, tryouts were held for Drum Major, Twirlers and Flag Corps. Three students from the University of Houston came to judge the candidates.

Drum Major tryouts consisted of the following criteria: fundamental marching execution, salute, conducting the Star Spangled Banner and a song of their choice, and an interview.

Twirlers were judged on fundamentals, Fight Song routine, and a routine to a song of their choice.

Flag Corps tryouts consisted of a fundamental routine, Fight Song, a routine of their choice, and an interview for the candidates trying out for

After the ceremony, pictures were taken of the old and new members. Everyone enjoyed punch and cookies.

Congratulations to the new members!

DISCLOSING PLAQUE

In order to remove bacterial plaque from our teeth, we have to see it. This is done with something called a disclosing agent, usually a red dye that stains bacteria. You can buy it at any pharmacy. Apply it with a Q-tip (after you brush and floss). Paint the edge of your gum where it meets the teeth. Move the Q-tip along, up and down, following the gumline. Now rinse and look to see where the stain is. Then brush and floss again. You'll notice that although brushing removes some of the stain at the direct edge of the gum, it did not get it all BETWEEN the teeth. Only Dental floss will get into these areas to remove bacteria. Brushing won't. That's why flossing is so important.

Do this disclosing daily at first until you really know your mouth, and later three times a week. You really won't know if you've effectively removed plaque if you don't disclose. It's like trying to lose weight without checking yourself on a scale. You need a guideline; the disclosing solution is it.

Presented as a public service to promote better dental health. From the office of JOHN B. MYRES, D.D.S., 700 S. McCarty Avenue, Eagle Lake, 234-3525.
