FCA meeting Sunday, Oct. 4.

FCA numbers grow

By Cecelia Ruiz
Fellowship of Christian Athletes is an organization for athletes sponsored by Paul and Dana Goetzke, coaches at Rice. Mrs. Goetzke stated, "We are trying to make it into a good organization that exemplifies Christian values."

This year, the FCA has many projects scheduled such as: visiting the nursing home and taking a Thanksgiving meal to a family in need of support. Their first project is Hoop for Heart which will be sponsored to help raise money for heart disease, the leading cause of death in America. FCA tries to meet every two weeks at the Goetzke's home.

At the first meeting, 30 members attended but by the second meeting membership had grown to 50 or 60.

Mrs. Goetzke also commented, "The organization is growing. Paul and I hope to bring the students at Rice High School closer together and we hope they have fun. We have many activities at the meetings. We eat, play volleyball, basketball and/or ping pong."

The FCA members will be selling T-shirts during the next couple of weeks.

If you have any questions about FCA, you can contact Paul or Dana Goetzke by calling the high school at 234-3535 or their home at 758-9051.

Who's Zat?

By Kim Lott
Now whom could this adorable face belong to? This is the question that I asked people at school. The only clue given was that she is currently a senior.

Lori Smith thought this little girl was Amalie Kucherka. She was wrong, unfortunately.

Kristi Moore and Shanna Waligura both thought she was Caleche "Kissy" Crane. Sorry ladies, this little girl is no longer a blonde.

Sarah Rivera, Misty Jones and Bill Ishee were all clueless as to whom this face belongs to.

But, Mr. Hajovsky, Amy Moore, Klay Korenek, Kristin Wesselski and Thomas Marsalia all knew right away that this little girl was none other than Angela Leopold. Hank Crane said it was "her face." Brandon Shanks said it was "the eyes and cheeks." But whatever it was, they were all correct.

Angie is the daughter of Robert and Barbara Leopold of Nada. She is a member of the flag corps, annual staff and NHS. She is president of FTA, student council vice president and senior class president.

Angie says she likes eating, dancing and laughing hysterically with her friends. Her future plans are to earn a degree in sociology from Texas A&M.

Blood drive held

By Angie Leopold
Without the blood that maintains our bodies' vital functions, health soon declines. When patients are in dire need of blood donations, they are frequently disappointed by the low supply of dispensable blood.

With respect for this extensive need, all the blood donors who came out to Rice High School (RHS) on Wednesday, Sept. 30, are greatly appreciated.

From 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., the RHS Student Council sponsored a blood drive held in the high school gym.

The Gulf Coast Blood Center arrived early in the morning to set up tables and equipment for the attempted donations of 54 people, the majority of whom were junior and senior students who were willing to give blood.

Forty seven of the 54 volunteers succeeded as donors. Each individual received a free-T-shirt, cookies and juice as recompense for the gracious contribution of one pint of blood.

When asked to comment on the blood drive, Mr. Lee Politsch, sponsor of the Student Council, stated, "I was real pleased with the turnout. I didn't expect so many donors."

Due to the charity of all donors who devoted their time and their blood to the aid of those in need, the blood drive clearly turned out a success.

Meet the Lady Raider

By Angie Leopold
Proudly wearing jersey #10 for the Lady Raider volleyball team is Nicole Krennek. Nicole, now a junior, plays the back court position of digger for JV.

Nicole has participated in volleyball all of her three high school years. "Winning and being part of the team" are what motivates her to work hard at playing the game. She commented about this year's team, "Mrs. Coach Goetzke is encouraging the team to work together and come out on top."

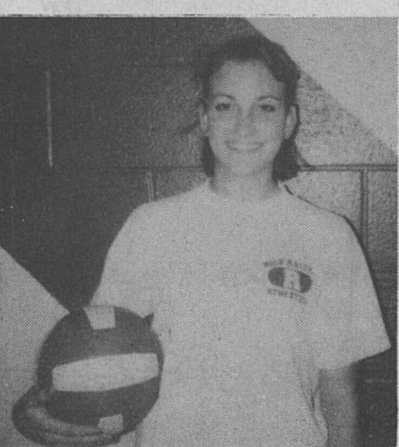

Nicole feels that "the season has been sort of challenging since we're in the new district, but we're doing pretty good." In the future, she hopes "to see the JV get stronger and be able to fill the varsity spots after the seniors are gone."

Aside from volleyball, Nicole involves herself in Student Council, FTA and FCA. She also serves as Junior Class President and a varsity cheerleader.

After high school, she plans to attend Southwest Texas University. Her greatest aspiration in life is to obtain a steady job in which she can earn enough money to live comfortably.

For now, as a student, Nicole is content with going out with her friends on the weekends.

This committed Lady Raider with high ambitions and a bright future is the daughter of J.P. and Beverly Krennek of Garwood.
