Foot Facts

By Dr. Eric R. Tepper, Podiatrist
FOOTWEAR FOR DIABETICS

For many people, buying shoes is a matter of fashion. If you like the way they look, never mind if they pinch a little here or rub a bit there. For people with diabetes, that kind of attitude can be deadly, as minor irritations can lead to life-threatening infections. Diabetics should shop where sales staffs are knowledgeable about proper fit. Shoes should feel good in the store - no one should fall into the trap of thinking that a tight, slightly uncomfortable shoe will stretch to fit after wearing. Look for shoe with soft and flexible uppers, smooth linings, comfortable arch cushions, snug but not pinching heels, soles that flex at the ball, and a roomy toe box.

People sometimes don't realize how their feet mirror their body's general health. And when the body hurts, the pain demands attention, and it is especially important for diabetics to heed this demand. We strongly recommend having foot problems attended to professionally to prevent them from becoming serious, as well as to keep a check on the rest of the body. We may not be able to prevent disease, but we can help deal with some of the serious problems that may accompany it. Call us at 234-5571, at Rice Medical Center. I am there every Tuesday.

P.S. A person with diabetes should never ignore any sign of foot irritation or injury. Call your podiatrist promptly about any change.
