

Saturday's Headliner - DANNI LEIGH

She has been described as a female Dwight Yoakum, but this lady can hold her own without comparisons to anyone. Danni Leigh will headline the Colorado County Fair Saturday night, September 11th. Her debut single, "If the Jukebox Took Teardrops" broke into the Country Top 40 earlier this year, and a new single is due out about Fair time. She played the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo this year along with opening for Alan Jackson on his nationwide tour.

Country Store
Again Open
For Business

A popular shopping spot at the Colorado County Fair will again be open and many items will be for sale.

The Country Store gives contributors an opportunity to make a little "pocket change" and benefits the fair scholarships and future fair activities. Shoppers have a chance to buy one of a kind items for themselves, gifts and begin their Christmas shopping.

Co-chairmen for this year's store will be Helen Michalke and Barbara Prause, along with volunteer clerks, who invite one and all fair visitors to come by, browse, say "howdy" and purchase their choices. Found on display will be aprons, pot holders, wood work, novelties, doll clothes, stuffed animals, baby quilts and much, much more.

A customer appreciation drawing will be held on Sunday, September 12th from tickets being given to each store customer. A big basket of collective gifts will be given some lucky person who has patronized the store during store hours Friday through Sunday, September 10th, 11th and 12th.

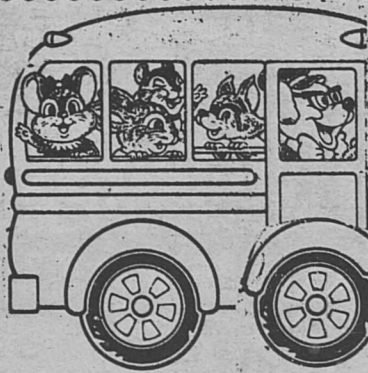

Located in the Veterans Community Center, the store will also be the center to sell baked goods from the baked goods department. These go on sale Friday after judging, with all proceeds going toward the fair.

Persons interested in selling their handmades through the store are encouraged to check the Fair Catalog for the rules and regulations.
