Gone But Not Forgotten Lucille Roy

When you were fourteen years old, your mother died, leaving you to raise a seven year old sister (my mother) and for that I thank you. I thank you for so many things, all too numerous to list. You helped me become the woman, the mother and grandmother that I am today.

They say that when we die, there is a loved one there to greet us when it's our turn. Well, I certainly hope that's true, because I hope to see you, along with my mother, when it's my turn.

I will always love you and be eternally grateful for the life's lessons you taught me during your lifetime.

So, until we meet again, I'll remain your loving niece,
René Cooper-Scott
