books? Certainly not, as the rebuttal suggested "recommended from National Main Street Program". (Information retrieved from www.mainstreet.org) I wonder what else is not realized now, and in the past, about our program. And what else have we, as a community, not been told the truth about.

As far as clearing up the confusion I created about the phases of the Main Street Program, I already did in yet another article submitted and published in the Eagle Lake Headlight on March 15th. In my most recent article, I, in no way, implied that the phases were to be completed one phase per year. It was read, by some, the way they wanted to read it. To quote the June 28th Eagle Lake Headlight article I wrote, "Remember, Brenham has been in the Main Street program for 20 years and they STILL aren't finished."

There was one time, week before last, that I was glad to be at the right place at the right time. In the Main Street Office, I was there when a Main Street Board Member entered the office after my article hit the surrounding newspapers. The Board member stated to the Main Street Manager that the Main Street Eagle Lake President needed to meet with her because "we have a problem." Of course we have a problem. The truth finally comes out. A new point I would like to bring up is the fact that there is a plan, contrary to previous statements to anyone concerned, for a Main Street Eagle Lake Historical District. I have seen it. Certain people have informed others that it never existed.

Has anyone had the chance to review the "Warning Signs: Why Main Street Programs Go Inactive" provided by the Assessment of Inactive Main Street Programs study. It has 15 valid points to which Main Street Eagle Lake applies to most of them. They, too will be published somewhere.

And that's it. It is hard to find the facts. Especially when it is shrouded in rumors and hearsay. As I complete this article, I am reminiscent of my very first article about the Economic Development Meeting on February 12th 2001 that I covered at the Eagle

Lake Community Center. There was a rebuttal the week after, stating that my article was "confusing and misleading". At that point, I knew I did my job of covering an event extraordinarily well because the meeting itself was "confusing and misleading." I have been anything but less than fair and have proven good judgment in the collection of facts to date. Let it be known that I expect a rebuttal again, to which there will be no response. I look at it this way; I have presented my points and facts. Other people have presented their points and facts. Let the general public be the judge because there is other important work to be done. I will also be as bold to dedicate this article to all citizens of Eagle Lake, past and present, which always wanted to speak out and say, "This is wrong" to this, or any other issue, and never did.

In addition, thanks to Charlie Herchek for producing the show.

Columbus has a great thing going for them; live entertainment of great quality that you cannot find often, even in the "big city".

Since last year's fundraiser, we have attended numerous Saturday night Oprys in Columbus and always enjoyed the entertainment. The entertainers help you relax and enjoy yourself when you see the enjoyment they have in performing.

We hope Columbus and the surrounding areas will continue to support this effort. It would be a shame to lose a show of this artistic value.

Sincerely,
Caroline Osborne, Director
