Report on Thomson

Reports Tuesday on Sam Thomson of Eagle Lake were not very good. After being taken to Hermann Hospital Sunday with a suspected aneurism, his condition appeared to be better than the doctors had expected, according to a spokesman at First National Bank where he is employed.

But, as of Tuesday, things were not going as well. Our prayers and thoughts are with Sam and his family.

Advisory Council.

"Water is important to the future of our state. We need to ensure this valuable natural resource is protected and conserved so that Texans for years to come will have access to clean, potable water. It is an honor for me to accept this award," stated Cook.

The TAGD works for groundwater conservation and protection. It also provides a means for individual districts to communicate and exchange information regarding day-to-day operation and management of local groundwater districts. Its membership is restricted to underground water conservation districts of Texas with powers and duties to manage groundwater as defined in Chapter 36 of the Texas Water Code.
