

Mr. and Mrs. David Dromgoole

Brown, Dromgoole Exchange Vows

Christine Elizabeth Brown and David Glenn Dromgoole were united in marriage on Saturday, June 10, 2006 at Christ Episcopal Church in Eagle Lake. The Reverend Steve Whitfield conducted the double ring ceremony. The Reverend Bill Grissom, Uncle of the groom, celebrated the nuptial mass.

The bride is the daughter of Alice and Paul Brown of College Station and the granddaughter of Estrella Tijerina of Corpus Christi and Jeanneane Brown of Carlsbad, New Mexico. The groom is the son of Frances and Fulton Dromgoole of Eagle Lake and the grandson of Hattie Maye Dromgoole of Wharton and the late Fulton M. Dromgoole, Sr. and Agnes and David Hengst of Eagle Lake.

The scriptures were read and the psalm was sung by Fulton Dromgoole, Jr., father of the groom. Soloist was Susie Green, aunt of the bride and organist was Cynthia Sunderman. The acolytes were Stephanie and Heather Grissom, cousins of the groom.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an off the shoulder gown of satin and an overlay of organza. Intricate beading was used on the neckline and the waistline of the gown. The gown was complete with a graceful chapel train. To complete her ensemble, she wore a fingertip veil of silk illusion with a handmade beaded headpiece. She carried a bouquet of red roses entwined with ivy and stephanotis.

Maids of honor were Kelly

Allen and Erin Cobb of Denton. Bridesmaids were Meredith Brown, sister of the bride of College Station, Nicole Green of Carlsbad, New Mexico and Fiona Brown of Albuquerque, New Mexico, cousins of the bride. Flower girls were Chloe and Kylie Brown of Belton, nieces of the bride.

Best man was Fulton Dromgoole, III brother of the groom, of Austin. Groomsmen were Josh Wilson, cousin of the groom, of Conroe, Jason Jones, friend of the groom of Eagle Lake, Tyler Lee, cousin of the groom of San Antonio and Matt Wilson, cousin of the groom, of Seabrook. Ushers were Paul Brown of College Station, Benny Brown of Belton, and Eric Brown, of College Station, all brothers of the bride.

After the ceremony, a reception and dance followed at the Eagle Lake Community Center.

Houseparty members were Mary Agnes Grissom, Tricia English, Annette Lee, Myra Wilson, Debbie Hengst, Reba Grissom, Anne Wigginton, Tricia Wilson, Donna Grissom, Liz Grissom, Angela Lee and Valerie Lee.

The bride is a 2002 graduate of A & M Consolidated High School and will graduate from the University of North Texas in May 2007.

The groom is a graduate of Rice Consolidated High School and a 2006 graduate of the University of North Texas in Denton, Texas. He is currently the sous-chef for Bruschetta's in Denton.

Following a honeymoon trip to Tennessee the couple now resides in Denton.

Tips From Sally Garrett

County Extension Agent

Health Screenings and Home Health Testing

With the availability of community health screenings and home health testing kits, more and more Americans are playing doctor says Sally Garrett, County Extension Agent - Family & Consumer Sciences. Often home health testing is seen as less expensive and more convenient than a trip to a health provider's office.

Self-testing diagnostic and monitoring services are big business. However, Andrew B. Crocker, Extension Program Specialist - Gerontology Health, says that this technology is not without limits and could result in serious problems for those who rely on these tests instead of the expertise of their health provider.

Devices such as blood-glucose tests and blood-pressure kits make it easier for people to self-monitor conditions such as diabetes and high blood pressure.

However, other tools of the medical trade are fast becoming available outside the health provider's office - no prescription needed - such as bone density scans and ultrasounds, among others.

Spiraling health-care costs and interest in preventive health care are paving the way for products and services that provide immediate information and suggested remedies, but not always reliable information and remedies states Crocker.

Accuracy is an important consideration when it comes to testing outside a medical setting or without a health provider's order.

False-positive test results indicate that a condition is present when, in fact, it is not. False-negatives are results that do not identify a condition that is present.

All diagnostic tests have limitations and sometimes their use may produce erroneous or questionable results. Test results obtained outside of a clinical setting may not be accepted by a health professional and he or she may recommend another test - possibly costing you twice as much.

Those who rely on tests which are not ordered or conducted by their health provider also miss out on pre- and post-test counseling, which offer information, support and follow-up advice that only a health professional can give.

The benefit of having a health professional involved in a test or screening procedure is that the results can be evaluated within the context of the whole health picture, not just one test.

Furthermore, receiving news of a potential illness or serious medical condition over the phone, or from the color of a test strip, can be devastating.

How Can You Protect Yourself From Health Scams?

Be wary.

Question what you see or hear in ads or on the Internet.

Find out about a product or service before you pay for it.

Do not let a sales person force you to make a snap decision.

"Free" services are free - they do not require giving the provider your Medicare number, credit card number or any other identification.

Check with your health provider.

Check with your insurance company and/or Medicare - the testing being offered for a fee at a community screening may be covered under insurance at your health provider's office.

It's easy to see why some people can be taken in by promoters' promises, especially when successful treatments have been elusive.

But resist pressure to decide "on the spot" about trying an untested product or treatment. Ask for more information and consult a knowledgeable health professional.

Promoters of legitimate healthcare products or services do not object to your seeking additional information.

Crocker says you can use the following checklist to help make sure that the health information and/or services you are receiving can be trusted:

Can you easily tell who is sponsoring the product or service?

Is the sponsor a government agency, a medical school or a reliable health-related organization?

Is there contact information for the service provider? Address? Phone number?

Is your privacy protected?

Does the product or service make claims that seem too good to be true?
