Army General To Speak At WCJC

Ann Richards. One year later he established the State Championship for High School Military Skills to give JROTC units across Texas an opportunity to achieve state recognition, just as sports teams and musical groups do. First held at Camp Mabry in Austin, the annual event has since moved to Texas A&M University.

In 1994, Governor George W. Bush promoted Bailey to major general and appointed him commanding general of the Texas State Guard. He served in that capacity until his retirement from the guard in 1997.

Another legacy that Bailey hopes to build when he retires from Clear Creek ISD this January is the Bailey Military Institute. Founded by his seven children to honor his promotion to brigadier general, the institute provides a chance for Houston home-schooled children in grades 6-12 to participate in an ROTC program. Students access the organization's military science educational materials and participate in monthly drills to earn class credit. Current and former Texas State Guard members grade their tests. The only cost to students is their uniform purchase. Bailey Military Institute also offers associate degrees in military history and business management.

Bailey enlisted in the U.S. Army in 1959 after graduating from Doty High School in McKinney, Texas. Upon completion of basic training and advance individual training, he attended Basic Airborne School with the 82nd Airborne. In 1962, Bailey was transferred to the 8th Infantry Division in Bad Kreuznach, Germany. Three years later he was transferred to the 101st Airborne Division, where he was promoted to staff sergeant and selected for Advanced Airborne School and Officer Candidate School.

In addition to his military education, Bailey holds a bachelor's degree in aeronautics from Embry Riddle Aeronautical University and a master's degree in education administration and supervision from Alcorn State University.

Beginning this school year, WCJC will present only one President's Lecture Series each semester in an effort to focus attention on timely lectures featuring highly sought after subjects. The change will also allow enhancements, such as the Oct. 19 inclusion of the WCJC Band, WCJC Choir and roll call. The WCJC Band is under the direction of Joe Waldrop, a Navy veteran who received the Silver Star, the Purple Heart with Bronze Service Star and other military awards.

For more information about the WCJC President's Lecture Series, visit www.wcjc.edu or call 979-532-6322 or 1-800-561-9252, ext. 6322.

OUR RIVERS AND GROUND WATER

Rep. Robby Cook is fighting hard to protect them!

"All of us who live along the Brazos and Colorado Rivers know that they are unique and irreplaceable natural resources that must be protected. We all rely on rivers, either directly or indirectly. I will continue to fight hard in the Texas Legislature to protect our rivers and our water supply."

-Robby Cook
State Representative

- The Brazos and Colorado Rivers run through the heart of House District 17, and as a former small-town Mayor, Robby understands that having a clean reliable water supply is absolutely essential to the people of our area.
- Robby is a fourth-generation rice farmer, and knows firsthand the importance of water for irrigation, as well as municipal, industrial and residential uses within the river basins.
- Robby serves as Chairman of the Rural Caucus, and is a former member of the House Natural Resources Committee.
- Robby worked hard to protect our surface and ground water rights as a member of the important Interim Committee on Water Resources Development and Management. He has been a strong advocate for Ground Water Conservation and local control of our ground water.
- Robby will continue to fight in the Legislature to protect our water from large urban areas and prevent the priceless waters of the Brazos and Colorado Rivers from being siphoned off to water the lawns of Houston or San Antonio.
