Aggie Muster Held In Weimar April 21

Former students of Texas A&M University with their friends and family in Weimar on April 21 to celebrate one of Texas A&M's oldest and most revered traditions, the annual Texas Aggie Muster.

They gathered together in remembrance of their fellow Aggies who have passed away within the last year.

Muster chairman, Dr. Bill Rugeley, opened the ceremony, welcomed everyone and conducted a short business meeting. Tom Schneider presented the Invocation, Pledge of Allegiance and an "Aggie Muster Day" reading. After dinner, Dr. Rugeley announced the winners of the Silent Auction bidding.

Scholarships were then awarded by Lisa Miller McNutt to Ryan Lakich of Columbus High School, Travis James Danklefs of Rice High School and Cole Heger Ulrich of Weimar High School.

A motivating speech on the special bond of an Aggie family was then given by featured speaker, Jim McAdams (class of 1972). McAdams is a rancher, realtor and ranch consultant and is a director and past president of the National Cattlemen's Beef Association.

"The Last Corps Trip" was then read by Russell Braun, followed by Mike Brasher reading "Silver Taps". The evening ended with the solemn muster ceremony conducted by Dr. Rugeley, including the Roll Call for the absent, a candlelight service, the 21 Gun Salute and Taps.

Texas Aggies around the world pride themselves on their unwavering loyalty and devotion to their university and their fellow Texas Aggies.

This strong sense pride is embodied within all Aggies is rooted in traditions, such as Aggie Muster, which is more than 100 years old and spans the globe, with more than 300 Musters held worldwide this year.

Muster is much more than a solemn remembrance of those who have passed. It is a special time during the year that Aggie throughout the world unite in Spirit and renew their loyalty and devotion, not only to the Aggie Family, but also to the endless Aggie Spirit as well.

Gedenke! Set May 12 in Weimar

That's what will be on tap for Saturday, May 12 for the Weimar Gedenke!, the annual town festival for the city of Weimar.

And everyone is invited to come.

It's Mother's Day weekend and is a chance for residents to visit old friends and meet new ones.

The location will be downtown on Jackson Square and the Weimar City Park.

The festival will host an outstanding lineup of musical entertainment for the festival on Saturday, May 12.

Entertainers include: The Telstars, Chris Rybak and DJ Johnny Loco.

They will be sure to get your toes to tapping as they belt out a variety of music.

And the music is all free.

Following is a tentative entertainment schedule:

Starting off the entertainment at 3 p.m. will be Chris Rybak from Hallettsville.

Chris has performed at Gedenke! several times in the past and is back again by popular demand.

He is the young accordion player who has been filling Texas dance hall floors with fans who enjoy his showmanship and his fresh enthusiastic musical style.

With influences on his music as varied as that of Hank Williams, Garth Brooks, Flaco Jimenez, Myron Floren, Floyd Cramer and George Strait, it's no wonder that he is capturing the hearts of thousands of people across Texas.

At 4:30 p.m., D.J. Johnny Loco will perform, until 8:30 p.m.

Johnny Loco has been entertaining crowds for a number of years in the area, with his eclectic choice of music, literally playing something for everyone, from the oldies to the current hits.

Beginning at 8:30 p.m., the Telstars are scheduled to perform at the pavilion.

The band is a longtime favorite on the area music scene and they play a variety of music.

As veteran Gedenke! goers know, there is a limited amount of seating, so you're invited to bring your lawn or folding chairs.

The festival, sponsored by the Weimar Chamber of Commerce, will again be held on Jackson Square downtown.

Gedenke! means "remember" in German, and celebrates Weimar's heritage.

The one-day festival features arts and crafts, as well as games for all ages.

There will be a parade in the afternoon and music entertainment.

All local community groups are invited to participate.

For more information, individuals and groups can contact the chamber office at 725-9511 or toll free at 888-3WEIMAR.

Another way to remember Gedenke! is that it is always the Saturday before Mother's Day.

Here is a list of some of the contact people for various aspects of Gedenke!
