Area Artist Tours On Tap This Weekend

It has been said there are actors who chew the scenery, violinists who sing for their suppers and painters who starve in garrets. But don't look for any of them on the map of the Rolling Hills' Artists' Studio Tours scheduled for April 12 and 13 in Austin and Colorado Counties. You'll be gravely disappointed. Designed to enable collectors at all levels to succeed in acquiring fine art, this two-day event features award-winning and professional artists whose works are highly collectible. Visitors will be accepted from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on both days at each of the locations on this self-guided tour. Entrance to each site is free of charge. This year's event showcases the work of Weimar artists Susan Keels and Suzanne Rabaud, an artist of French descent who works in oils and is also a classically trained pianist, as well as Ken Turner and Mark Chapman, co-owners of the Turner-Chapman Gallery in Columbus. Other artists featured include University of Houston Professor David Hickman, whose studio is located in New Ulm; Kathleen Bernard of the Holland Street Gallery in Bellville and St. Petersburg, Russia, artist Kathleen Diener and local artist Cathy Fuchs Holman, both of whom will be showing at Carols at Cat Spring Restaurant in Cat Spring. In addition to the Rolling Hills Artists Studio Tour, a number of art-related events will also take place in Columbus during the weekend. The Live Oak Art Center will host a lecture and luncheon featuring architectural historian Stephen Fox and photographer Betsy Siegel. Several pieces from the private collection of Mark Chapman to include a sculpture by Rodin and paintings by Picasso and Dwight D. Eisenhower will be on view at the Stafford Opera House in Columbus. Visitors will be provided the opportunity to meet the collector, Mark Chapman, prior to the start of the dinner theater production of Lunch Hour scheduled to take place that evening. For more information, contact the Columbus Convention and Visitors Bureau at (979) 732-8385 or log on to www.rollin-gillshillartists.org.
