DON'T LET YOUR INSURANCE DICTATE YOUR TREATMENT

We are committed to providing you and your family with the best possible dental care, including long-term preventive care. It is important to remember that you are a partner with us in your oral health, and that treatment and care decisions should be made together with us, specifically designed around your needs. An employer-assisted dental insurance plan helps cover the cost of dental care -- it will not cover the full cost of the specific treatment you may require. A dental insurance plan is not a treatment plan.

Don't allow your dental insurance plan to dictate the care you receive. Some dental plans exclude necessary dental treatments such as sealants, orthodontics, and crowns and bridges. Some plans will provide the level of benefit allowed for the least expensive way to treat a dental need, regardless of the most effective treatment required.

By taking care of your dental health you are making a long-term investment in your own well being and that of your family. If we can be of any help to you in understanding your dental plan, and how it can function as a part of your treatment plan, please let us know.

Halloween Costumes Influenced By Current Events

What could be scarier than having the presidential candidates show up at your door asking for a handout? This Halloween that just may happen to you, so you might want to consider keeping a big bowl of bailout candy nearby.

As more people plan to celebrate Halloween this year, consumers are looking to Hollywood and the upcoming election as their inspiration for costumes.

According to a Halloween survey conducted by BIGresearch on behalf of the National Retail Federation, an estimated 51.8 million adults plan to don some sort of costume for the big night and popular figures are top inspirations. Their children -- and even their pets -- also will dress up for the occasion.

Thanks to this year's blockbuster hit "The Dark Knight," Batman landed a spot on all three lists of the most popular costumes for adults, children and pets. He's the sixth most popular for adults, the eighth most popular for kids and number 16 for four-legged friends.

The upcoming election also will play a role in costume selection this year as 574,000 adults plan to dress up as a political figure -- so beware of Barack Obama and John McCain cruising your neighborhood for candy.

"Halloween for will serve as a nice reprieve for many Americans this year," said Phil Rist, Vice President of Strategy at BIGresearch. "Whether they host their own party or hit the streets trick-or-treating with their children, consumers want Halloween costumes to reflect their creativity."

While traditional costumes like witches, pirates and cats remain favorites among adults, children are adding a bit more flair by choosing more from personas -- with Hannah Montana weighing in at number three on their list and Star Wars characters coming in at sixth place.

Other popular children's costumes include the top-ranked princess, witch, Spider-Man and pirate.

And, as always, Halloween is big business. Total Halloween spending for 2008 is estimated to reach $5.77 billion, according to the researchers.

This year's NRF 2008 Halloween Consumer Intentions and Actions Survey polled 8,167 consumers about their costume plans and spending intentions.
