Vet Gives Memorial Day Thoughts

Submitted by Harry Supak
Chaplin V.F.W. Post 8783

When many, perhaps even most people think of Memorial Day, they conjure up images of cookouts, watching auto races and having a relaxing day off.

What all too many Americans forget is the true reason we observe Memorial Day to commemorate the heroes who died while serving this great nation.

At one time, Memorial Day was far less commercialized. People turned out in large numbers to honor the fallen at church services, cemeteries and organized events.

Surely, in the sixth year of the War on Terror we can set aside a small portion of Memorial Day to remember our heroes.

Originally begun as a tribute to Union dead after the War between the states, decoration day as it was known then, was organized in the spring so fresh flowers could be placed on the graves of the recently deceased warriors.

By the turn of the century, the day was fixed to May 30 and adopted by states throughout the nation. After the War to end all wars, WWI, the day was declared not only a memorial to those died in the Civil War, but all American wars. Memorial day was officially declared a national holiday in 1971.

As long as Americans are willing to defend freedom with their lives, our nation will remain a beacon of hope for people around the world.
