Little Angel Unknown
I knew you'd love me from the very start, from that first sighting and beating of my tiny heart. So I know it hurt you that you had to say goodbye, but I am your guardian angel now and I'll dry the tears from your eyes.

I'll be there by your side wherever you now go, I will hear you speak of me often and what I might have been if I'd grown. I'll be the special angel in the picture that you have, I'll remind you of my step-mom and my dad. I may be gone but you'll hear me in the wind, when I say I miss you Stacy, it's me Brylynn.
I miss you too Brylynn...Love, Your godmother, Stacy

Show Mom You Care This Mother's Day

She brought you into the world and guided you through it. Now it's time to celebrate mom.

Look past those flowers this Mother's Day and opt for lasting, custom gifts or experiences expressing the depth of your relationship.

Don't forget, it's not just your mom you should recognize, but the mother of your children, your grandmother and all the special moms in your life.

Here are some creative ideas:

Turn The Tables

How many meals has mom prepared for others? It's time you turned the tables.

It doesn't have to be costly: salads, pastas and soup will do nicely.

Just add some ambience to the dining room or pack it up for a picnic.

Give a

Specially-Customized Gift
She loves her customized ring tones and personalized options built into her car, her computer and even her gym equipment, so she'll appreciate a gift custom made especially for her.

Select a customizable gift based on her personality, such as jewelry that allows you to add different charms and incorporate engravings, or personalized stationary with a design scheme that captures mom's essence.

Time To Relax

Every mom deserves time off. Package a spa gift certificate with a personalized, embroidered robe or an engraved makeup compact to extend her relaxation time.

Instead of a pricey spa, use alternatives for at-home pampering.

Create a gift basket with bath salts or oils, paired with scented candles and a relaxing CD.

If mom likes to read, buy her favorite books and include an engraved bookmark with a quote about the joy of motherhood. She'll think of you every time

Mom sang to you as a child. Relive those memories with a music box or water globe featuring a special song.

Mothers also love family pictures, so arrange some of her favorite photos in a display.

Many retailers offer photo frames, shadowboxes and albums with areas to add engraved personal reflections.

Other than her birthday, Mother's Day is the best opportunity to thank your mom.

This year, take the time to do it right.

Keep Routines From Overwhelming Your Life

From the moment you wake in the morning to the second your head hits the pillow at night, there are many responsibilities requiring your attention.

Without being careful, people easily can fall prey to the stress of that routine.

Luckily, it's not too late for most of us to overcome the rigors of the daily grind.

Come Back to Earth

Our jobs and daily routines are important, but they don't need to define us.

Time alone or with family can remind us of that. Some try to find that escape in material things, but this sometimes can mask depression.

Material things don't matter.

Vacation and Sleep

Vacations are a great way to escape pressures of your daily routine, especially if they're not brimming with activities.

A beach getaway or a relaxing trip to the country can provide a relaxing, low-maintenance vacation.

And while vacations can be beneficial, getting regular sleep can be just as important.

Research has found sleep to be a healthy, drug-free way to combat stress and anxiety.

Drop Bad Habits

Bad habits don't only include drinking and smoking.

Working too much or running yourself ragged with chores also can be health hazards.

Try to find better balance to establish a healthy foundation on which to build a well-rounded life.

One bad habit often overlooked is disorganization. That inability to manage daily tasks can be both the cause and effect of stress and anxiety.

Keeping a proper calendar and managing time efficiently can prove invaluable and relaxing.

It's not just the big problems that can overwhelm us, say mental health experts.

Little things can build up, leaving us overwhelmed and debilitated. It's important to take good care of yourself daily.
