Self Government.

Little as you may have thought of it, adopting a system of absolute justice alone can establish a real democratic practice and we are as yet far from it.

We can not expect the papers to come to our rescue until we show some evidence of individual decision of character and practice and not then until the majority can act upon this basis.

The papers is great part depend for a living upon "the powers that be" and in a conflict of interest with the public and the bad management for the people, the papers for the want of confidence in the rule of the people generally serve their patrons from whom they get the most money. None of us like to antagonize, to any great extent, legitimate revenue. This cripples the freedom of the press with out the assistance of which we can not easily have self government.

It is not easy to route the supposedly organized power of the dominant influence single handed and alone and this want of support from the people intimidates men of even moral courage when the people show such indifference of self government and allow a continuance in office of "the same old clique" indefinitely.

It is better, in self government to vote for a man not so good than to continue men in office so long that they lose respect for our judgement and do not "give a fig" for the general welfare nor our individual interest. If we can show our power we can arouse our officials to what we want done.

Talk to your neighbor about it and bench officers that their positions do not belong to them. On course they will try to crush and discredit every influence that oppose "ring rule" and they have

Our large catalogue containing the statements of young people who have traveled the road we are advising you to travel would be interesting reading to you. Corpus Christi, Tex.—Twelve hundred and forty-two cars of vegetables had been shipped from points on the St. Louis, Brownsville and Mexico railway up to March 21, according to official figures made public Tuesday. Of the shipments this year, 1,144 have been cabbage, 47 have been lettuce, three cars of potatoes and remaining shipments have been mixed cars of turnips, cauliflower and other vegetables.

Shipments this year for all stations with comparative shipments for 1913 follows; shipments for 1914 being given just followed by shipments of 1913:

Practically all of the shipments from Corpus Christi this season have been over the San Antonio and Aransas Pass and the San Antonio, U-aid and Gulf and the total shipments up to date have amounted to 48 cars, practically all of which has been cabbage.

Cabbage prices during the past two weeks have been on the upgrade, ranging from $18 to $20 per ton f. o. b. station. Such prices means that the truckers are making fine returns and will insure the season being the best in the history of the season.

Late frosts have practically ruined the cucumber crop and it is intimated shipments will be very light.
